Westminster Girl Is Accorded Honor

MISS BETTY SCHAR

NEW WILMINGTON, April 9.—Betty Schar, Westminster college freshman from Westview, was named as the most outstanding girl in the freshman class, on the basis of personality, scholarship, leadership, athletic, and cultural interests.

Miss Schar, a school of Speech major, is a member of the Mermaid club; a pledge to Chi Omega sorority; and took the lead in "The Finger of God", a Little Theatre production this year.

Six other girls were named in the top seven in the ranking made by presidents of campus sororities and non-fraternity organizations: Martha Cochran, E. Liverpool, O.; Betty McConahy, New Castle; Esther Manson, Washington; Janet Bales, Cleveland, O.; Isabel Murray, Watsonton; and Louise Lane, Aliquippa.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

The essence of Spring is in the air, and this fact is considerably noticeable at Cascade Park the past few days, Miss Pa Newc observes, with the burning of dead tree limbs and rubber lying about. Mike, the janitor of the park for a number of years, is keeping busy in getting the grounds, and his usual display of flowers, in readiness for the summer season. Several pockets of blue smoke can be seen in this vicinity at a distance, coming from bonfires built for the disposing of scattered rubbish, abount New Castle's playground.

Strollers can be seen at almost any hour of the day going through Cascade Park, Miss Pa Newc notices.

Attention is brought to Richelieu avenue, on the Croton side of town, as one of the city's streets, badly in need of improvement. Motorists who have occasion to use this street, complain of the numerous holes that exist, that need filled in.

Tomorrow is Good Friday. New Castle churches have planned impressive services for the occasion.

Census figures at the Jameson Memorial hospital reveal that the hospital is again well filled with patients. At midnight last night, 115 patients were registered at the hospital.

New Castle citizens will certainly welcome the appointment of a dog catcher. In some sections of the city the dog running at large nuisance is worse than it has been for years.

Alice Longworth Says

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—Mr. Wallace couldn't be milder or more ingratiating, with his little joke about not making farm benefit payments public for fear "somebody might come along and kidnap the farmer's daughter." Nevertheless he just won't hand over the information that Senator Vandenberg has asked for.

It appears that the data about the corn-hog, cotton, wheat and other cheques is "in the cards," but there are 20,000,000 of these, dealt but not sorted, which must be tabulated before the Department of Agriculture can disclose details of the sums which have been disbursed.

All this, according to Mr. Wallace, is eventually due to be compiled for publication. Yet he admits that he is not sure that the names of the beneficiaries will be included.

Such authority to keep the taxpayers in the dark as to who gets their money is a menacing power to lodge in any one individual. To give even so highminded a man as Mr. Wallace this jurisdiction shows to what an extent congress has caved in to the president and his underlings.

CEREMONY MARKS ARMORY START

Break Ground For Erection Of Troop Armory

Ceremonies Take Place At Cascade Park Site During Morning

RUSSELL MELVIN DIRECTS PROGRAM

Leaders In Troop And Armory Movement Take Part In Proceedings

With ceremonies fitting to the occasion, ground was broken at 10:30 o'clock today for the new "Joseph V. Cunningham" Armory which will be located in Cascade Park at the head of Huron avenue. Former members of the troop, members of the civilian sponsor committee, and friends of Troop F, 103rd Cavalry were present, spoke briefly and then turned up a shovel full of earth.

Short though the exercises were today they were significant. They symbolized the start of a permanent home for Troop F, but they also symbolized the end of a quarter century of effort to obtain such a building.

Russell W. Melvin, Chairman

Russell W. Melvin, the first enlisted man in the troop, was the chairman of the exercises. Opening his remarks he expressed his pleasure at being able to participate in the exercises marking the start of the building.

He recalled the days when the troop members were paid little and had to furnish their own horses. He congratulated the men present for coming out to aid the program and said that the only day more significant than today would be that day when the armory was formally turned over to the troop.

The first speaker was Thomas C. Armstrong, the first commissioned

Hopkins Asks For Free Hand

Wants Free Hand In Spending Of Proposed $1,500,000,000 Relief Fund

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, today fought before a house appropriations subcommittee for a free hand in spending the proposed $1,500,000,000 relief fund.

Despite Republican demands for earmarking, with some Democratic groups also favoring this action by congress, Hopkins said the proposal is impractical. The administration, he asserted, in a hearing held behind closed doors, must be free to adapt its relief program to changing situations.

Staggering Totals

Hopkins disclosed, members said, that the grand total of federal relief expenditures next year will be $3,100,000,000—about the same as this year.

The total includes: the proposed $1,500,000,000 fund asked by President Roosevelt; an unexpended balance on July 1 of about $1,000,000,000 from last year's $4,880,000,000 fund, and $600,000,000 scattered through regular appropriation bills.

In a change from emergency to regular treatment of some expenditures, congress is appropriating $246,000,000 for CCC camps and additional funds for rivers and harbors, public buildings, roads and similar expenditures in the regular annual supply bills.

Zeppelin Off African Coast

(International News Service)

BERLIN, April 9.—The Zeppelin Von Hindenburg today was speeding up the coast of northwest Africa, at 75 miles an hour on her return trip from South America, she radioed to the air ministry here.

"All is well," her commander said, ending uneasiness felt over the dirigible's long silence, in spite of assurances from the air ministry that such periods were common, and probably due to the Zeppelin's high altitude.

At 11 a. m., Greenwich time, the Von Hindenburg gave her position as 30 degrees, 16 minutes north latitude and 11 degrees 24 minutes west longitude—off the coast of Morocco.

President Goes To Georgia Resort For Tour Of Inspection

WILL BE BACK IN CAPITAL FRIDAY

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ABOARD THE PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL ENROUTE TO WARM SPRINGS, Ga., April 9.—President Roosevelt was traveling northward from Florida this morning toward the Georgia tornado area.

He planned to stop off for the day at Warm Springs, about 120 miles from Gainesville, worst-hit town in Monday's disturbance, and it was considered likely he would be enabled to receive some first-hand reports on the extent of the wind's ravages.

While still aboard the U. S. S. Potomac on his 17-day fishing cruise in southern waters, the president had been radioed that the Warm Springs Foundation escaped the tornado completely, but he was much concerned over other reports detailing the havoc wreaked in the nearby countryside.

Mr. Roosevelt was anticipating a quiet day at Warm Springs, his special train was due to arrive

Plane Wreck Ruins Burned

Remnant Of T.W.A. Luxury Liner In Uniontown Crash Destroyed

INSTRUMENTS ON PLANE REMOVED

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 9.—Flames took what was left of the wrecked TWA luxury airliner "Sun Racer" today as the elements began to take the blame for the worst air tragedy in Pennsylvania history.

After a final survey by official investigators of the scene where the plane hurtled into Chestnut Ridge on Tuesday, carrying 11 of its 14 occupants to death, William Cunningham, state aeronautical inspector for the western ditsrict, put the torch to the crumpled wreckage.

Guard Against Fire

Forty WPA workers, standing guard against a possible forest fire, were the only spectators. Five hundred others were turned away from the spot earlier.

The flames that made a funeral pyre for the liner took nothing of value. Before the wreckage was fired the broken instruments, the mail and parcels the ship carried, parts of the fuselage and other structural exhibits needed for the investigation were removed.

Meantime, belief the crash was caused by impenetrable fog and rain

King Edward At Public Ceremony

Attends Maundy Thursday Service At Westminster Abbey

DISTRIBUTES ALMS DURING HIS VISIT

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 9.—Appearing at his first public ceremony since his accession, King Edward VIII today attended the Maundy Thursday service in Westminster Abbey, distributing alms to 142 aged and infirm men and women in a ritual that centuries ago also required the king to wash his humble subjects' feet.

This was the second time in 250 years that the English sovereign "made his maund" in person. His father, the late King George V, attended a few years ago.

Maundy pence should have been given to only 42 men and 42 women according to the king's age, but Edward decided to set the number on the basis of his father's years, just as though he were living. James II was the last English king to wash the feet of as many poor persons as he was years old. William III, who succeeded him in 1689, gave the job to his almoner, and the custom was finally abolished in 1754.

Maundy money was first specially minted in the reign of Charles II, 1649-85.

Until he was forced into exile five years ago, King Alfonso of Spain performed the foot-washing rite each year.

Check Double's Alleged Confession In Murder

(International News Service)

BUTLER, Pa., April 9.—Elmer Double, Sr., 59, of New Kensington, Pa., was held in Butler county jail today, awaiting arraignment for the slaying of his sister, Mrs. Laure Double Kelly, 75, at her farm home in Worth township, near Slippery Rock, Pa.

Meanwhile, authorities checked Double's alleged confession of the murder, a story of constant discord and arguments over the widow's will, climaxed on March 30, when he reputedly beat her to death with a broom handle. Authorities said Double objected to several of the will's provisions.

The aged widow's body was found in a well on the farm. Double was arrested in Washington, D. C., and brought to the state police barracks here, where the purported confession was made.

Y. W. Campaign Is Successful

Drive Ends With 837 Members And $1,372.50 In Cash, Paid And Pledged

BELIEVE MEMBERSHIP WILL SWELL TO 900

A final spurt—although hard on palpitating hearts—has won many a race. Wednesday night such a final supreme effort pushed the Y. W. C. A. membership drive right over the top.

Workers were jubilant when the score, which brings a triumphant close to a week of campaigning, was announced. There were 837 members and $1,372.50 n cash paid and pledged. The number of members will probably go well over the 900 mark before the April 21 meeting of the board of directors and the cash amount will be increased considerably. All workers' cards have not been turned in as yet but will be by the time of the board meeting.

Their great appreciation for the generous response of New Castle's women citizens to the need of the Young Women's Christian Association was expressed last night by the board, committee and club members who compromised the campaign teams. They believed it especially

Italy's Position Before League On Halting War To Be Submitted

HAILE SELASSIE'S ARMY IN FLIGHT

Italy Also Seeks Reconsideration By League Of Aggression Stand

By LINDESAY PARROTT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ROME, April 9.—Large territorial concessions by Ethiopia will be demanded by Italy before Premier Mussolini agrees to halt the advance of his victorious armies in East Africa, it was learned today.

According to usually well-informed circles this will be the Italian position at Geneva when the League of Nations asks Italy to state within a specified time her attitude toward cessation of hostilities.

Counter Proposal Sought

The demand for an immediate reply, as pushed by Great Britain, was expected to be countered with a proposal that Salvador De Madariaga, the league's representative designated to help bring about peace negotiations, make the visit to Rome previously suggested here and lay at least a minimum offer of peace terms before Il Duce.

Among the terms Italy would approve, it was stated authoritatively, is a promise by the league to reconsider Italy's complaints against Eth-

New York Detectives Hunt Ringleaders In Latest Vice Racket

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 9—Shocked, enraged, crack detectives scoured New York today for 17 ringleaders of one of the most increditable vice rackets ever to come to public attention.

In a smashing drive on the gambling dens of a widespread political club gambling syndicate, the police learned that more than 1,000 respectable married women had been cruelly victimized and forced into prostitution.

Every known political club and underworld haunt is being watched today in the hunt for the racketeers.

Informed Of Conditions

Existence of the racket came to light February 7, when a woman, described as the wife of a prominent man, informed police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine of the appalling conditions.

The commissioner at first refused to believe such conditions possible, but an exhaustive investigation proved she was right.

Throughout Republican and Democratic clubs in all of the city's five boroughs, it was found the racket flourished uncurbed. Respectable married women would be lured by taxicab drivers and professional procurers to participate in a "quiet little poker game, at some club.

For the use of a part of the club house the gamblers paid rent out of a "kitty" and the minimum starting stake for chips was $20.

After the victim had lost all her money—as usually happened—a loan shark loaned her $50 on the prom-

Number Of Male Teachers Increases

By ARTHUR H. WAKELEE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, April 9—In the gradual displacement of women from a field they have long dominated, state school authorities today foresee teaching in Pennsylvania becoming a profession for men.

Steady inroads by men into the classrooms of the commonwealth were revealed in a New Jersey survey submitted to Dr. Lester K. Ade, state superintendent of public instruction, by Henry Klonower, chief of the teacher division of the department.Following the educational trend of European countries, the survey found there has been a general increase in the number of men entering the teaching service of state schools during the past 16 years.

25 Per Cent Are Men

"Approximately 25 per cent of all teachers now employed in the public school of the commonwealth are men," Klonower reported to Dr. Ade. "In 1920 only 16 per cent were men."

A further interesting development disclosed in the study was the sharp increase noted in the number of male teachers in the past five years.

"The rapid increase in the devel-

BALTIMORE HOME BOMBED

Blast Occurs At Mayor's Home

Cause Of Bombing Is Mystery—Home Placed Under Guard

FORTUNATELY NO ONE IS INJURED

(International News Service)

BALTIMORE, April 9.—Fifteen minutes after Mayor Howard W. Jackson entered his Spring Lake home early today a terrific blast let go in front of the house. The detonation shattered a few windows in the Jackson residence and tore a hole in the ground outside a foot deep and 18 inches in diameter.

"There is absolutely no doubt that it was a bomb," the mayor said. "I can't understand why any attempt should be made on my home."

He said he has had "political differences"—he is the boss of the Democratic party here—but knows of no enemies who would resort to such an act.

The police, who placed a guard around the home for the remainder of the night, believed the bomb was hurled toward the house from a passing automobile.

Had Just Returned Home

Jackson thinks the party who wanted to destroy his house waited for him to come home because the blast occurred at 1:34 a. m., 15 minutes after he had been driven home by his chauffeur. The mayor was in bed reading when the detonation shook his house and broke a few windows.

In the house with the mayor were his wife, his daughter, Miss Virginia Jackson, a grandson, William Sheehan, and two servants. All were frightened and the mayor was the first one to call the police. He dressed hurriedly and went to the street, only to find the explosion had occurred in front of his own house.

Jackson is serving his third term as mayor.

When the setting of her button earring came off, an ingenious lady fastened it on again with chewing gum.

opment of secondary education has been a factor in the increased number of men employed in the public schools Klonower said, adding "this partially explains the increase in the number of men employed." Other officials expressed the opinion the depresson had forced many men, unable to obtain employment elsewhere, back into the teaching field.

In 1920, the survey disclosed, a total of 44,862 teachers and supervisory officials were employed in Pennsylvania schools. Of that number, it was found 37,655 were women and only 7,207 were men. By 1930 the number of women had advanced to its highest point, 49,279.

After 1930, the report found, the rate of increase of women teachers declined until in 1935 the number had dropped to 47,143. The total number of men employed gained steadily until in 1935 there were 15, 281 men employed in public schools of the state.

Fat Girls Get The Go-By—Slim Girls Win Men

Lose Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises.

Here's a way to get rid of ugly fat that works hand in hand with Nature. Millions of people are losing millions of pounds of flabby flesh and getting back slender figures, without the need of starvation diets or back-breaking exercises.

Medical science has discovered that one of the causes of too much fat lies in a little gland. It is the duty of this tiny gland to make about one drop and a half every day of a vital fluid. This helps the body "burn" up food and excess fatty tissues just as a good draft of air helps the furnace to burn up coal without forming "clinkers". If this little gland doesn't make this drop and a half of fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat.

Doctors correct this condition by feeding this little gland the substance it lacks—and Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on this same method. Millions are using them with success. They are prepared by a world-famous medical laboratory. Their formula is published in every package so you know what you are taking.

So don't waste time and money with starvation diets or back-breaking exercises. Go to your druggist today and get a box of Marmola. Try this simple, easy way to get rid of excess fat.

officer of the troop, who is still living. Mr. Armstrong was second in command to Captain Joseph V. Cunningham the founder of the troop. Second to speak was former Mayor William H. Dunlap, who was the second lieutenant of the first troop.

L. B. Round, chairman of the civilian sponsor committee, spoke at some length in reviewing the efforts that had been made in the past six years in getting an armory. "This troop is a credit to the city and the armory will be a credit to the troop," said he.

Mr. Round was followed by Major W. Fulton Jackson also an active member of the civilian sponsor committee. For the Works Progress Administration, Director J. Vale Downie spoke and promised that the armory would receive every effort of his organization.

Other Speakers

Other speakers were Charles F. McGill, Lawrence county supervisor of the WPA; Captain George F. Mitchell, commanding Troop F; David Marshall, John Scott, Joseph Knowles, Lewis A. Conn, first vice president of the Society of the 28th Division; L. A. Haug and Frank S. Hoyt, one of the members of the original sponsoring committee, back in the early days of the troop.

Following the speaking each of the speakers turned over a shovel full of earth with a small nickel plated shovel that will be presented to the armory by L. B. Round.

The site of the new armory is ideal. Standing up on an eminence overlooking Cascade Park, it will be well drained, and will stand out as an addition to this section of the park. Built of native Lawrence county stone that is almost white in color, it will be a handsome building, one well worthy of the best efforts of the troop.

that drove Pilot Otto Ferguson off his course and turned him blindly into the dangerous "hogbacks" of this section was superseding the earlier theories that the crash resulted from faulty operation of the Pittsburgh radio beam or failure of the plane's radio apparatus.

Cause Will Never Be Known

Tests of the beam yesterday by TWA officials in a twin ship showed it operating properly. No evidence has yet been found to show the "Sun Racer's" radio was not functioning normally.

"The cause will never be known," Maj. R. W. Schroeder of the Department of Commerce, said again today. "Wreckage is horribly tangled and indications are the pilot, missing his beam, crashed suddenly while attempting to gain altitude after he struck a tree."

"We have come to no conclusion," added South Trimble, Jr., solicitor for the department who took charge of the case as a preliminary inquiry was summoned here this afternoon.

ise that $150 would be returned. In a short time the victim became hopelessly entangled in the ring's meshes and a "madam" whose acquaintance the woman had previously made at the poker games would subtly suggest she go to a disreputable establishment and "entertain" men of high financial standing for fees of $20 to $50.

The husband of one victim is understood to have committed suicide when he learned how his wife had been forced to pay off her gambling debts. In all probability the full extent of the misery caused by this vicious racket will never be known, Valentine declared.

The police raids started March 1, with Inspector Michael J. Murphy head of the confidential squad, in charge. It is said that protests immediately came from political leaders and threats to "break" Murphy were heard.

Eusebius says that Paul of Samosata encouraged the congregation to applaud his preaching by waving linen cloths and in the fourth and fifth centuries applause of the efforts of popular preachers was customary.

iopian aggression. This, it was said, would have to be included as a preliminary move, removing the stigma of attack now placed upon Italy.

Haile Selassie's Army Flees

With Emperor Haile Selassie's army in flight and with Marshal Badoglio's troops speedily adding to the 50,000 square kilometers of territory already taken, the Italian view is that Italy already controls more territory than has been suggested in any previous peace plan, and therefore that a new offer must be made before the Italian campaign can be called off.

Threat of additional sanctions against Italy, heard in some British quarters, causes no alarm here.

devastated town, building sites were being cleared for the erection of new stuctures.

All day long yesterday the funeral processions passed through the wreckage from the morgues to the cemeteries. Many of the funeral services were conducted from partially demolished churches. Others were held in private homes that had escaped the wrath of the storm.

In Nameless Graves

Funerals for the unidentified dead had not been arranged early today. Officials expressed the hope that relatives of most of them would be found, but several, in all probability, will be laid to rest in nameless graves.

Even as the few remaining church bells tolled a mournful dirge for the dead, the Red Cross plunged into the task of ascertaining how many children have been made orphans by the storm.

Many such children already have been found, but an additional search relief workers said, undoubtedly will reveal many more. Several children, still unidentified, are being held in hospitals.

At least four thousand residents of the city are disaster sufferers who must be taken care of, William C. Hunt, assistant division manager of the Red Cross, stated following a conference with relief workers.

fine coming as it did so closely after the flood relief appeals.

Many members have made real sacrifices to pay their Y. W. C. A. dues this year. Scores doubled and tripled their former contribution and there was a large response to the request for an increased number of sustaining memberships of $5, $10, and $15. One contributor gave $100 and announcement of this added much to the enthusiasm of last night's final report-dinner. The total cash receipts was $954.

Entirely Voluntary

Since membership in the "Y" is not required of any girl for any activity, these membership contributions are entirely voluntary and are given because the women are in sympathy with the work of the association and wish to aid in its financial support.

Responsibility for the selection of the board of directors is the duty and privilege of the members. Last evening nominations were requested to be given by any member to any one member of the following nominating committee which was elected at the last annual meeting: Nancy Bechtol, chairman; Ethel Moore, Mrs. Marian Wallace Armstrong, Mrs. Keith McAfee and Mary Bigley. Since three members of the present board have served their two allotted terms of three years each there will be an unusual opportunity for women of vision and consecration to give unstintedly of their time and ability in order that a more abundant life may be possible for women and girls in New Castle.

Membership in the Young Women's Christian Association is a great stride toward a closer and more democratic fellowship of women and girls of all ages, nationalities and denominations.

Last night's detailed workers' reports will be published in a later edition of The News.

MORE CONTRIBUTIONS

Mayor Charles E. McGrath announced today that among those who contributed to the fund for flood sufferers collected at his office and turned over to the Red Cross were the Order of Ahepa $25.00; and the Slovak Roman Greek Catholic Benefit society.

EAST SIDERS PUSH CAMPAIGN ON CATS

In response to their slogan for this spring, "Bell Your Cat," the East Side Garden club has received requests in the neighborhood of 100 that these little tinkling bits of brass be supplied pet lovers who have a double affection, in that they desire also, to save the new little birds which will be hopping about soon, and to whom the family cat is a natural enemy.

By means of the bell, the feathered creatures are warned in advance that danger is lurking near and it is usually found that the old mother bird is ever on the alert, the better so, if she can have a little outside help. Bells can still be secured from the East Siders, so don't hesitate to call if you want to help further this little project which well enough could be a big thing, if many more people would get behind the idea and push.

The above report, together with other business of a routine nature interested the usual number of members and four guests Wednesday, in the home of the president, Mrs. Harry Sturdevant, on Morton street. Guests included: Mrs. John T. Wilson, of Cleveland, Miss Kathryn Hite, Mrs. George Ward, Mrs. Walter Gross and Mrs. Edith Allen.

The latter two assisted the hostess with the delightful luncheon which was served previously, at one o'clock. For the centerpiece, the hostess used a springtime suggestion, a bouquet of forced forsythia—a lovely yellow—in a black bowl.

For the program following, the theme was "Planning and Planting Vegetable Gardens with Floral Borders". Mrs. Claude Mantz discussed "My Flower Garden", and Mrs. Earl McKnight "My Vegetable Garden". Roll call was answered by giving unusual garden arrangements. The discussion afterwards was lively and informative. A seed exchanged caused further interest.

ANOTHER OBJECTIVE REACHED

AS THE ground is broken today for the new armory for Troop F, another objective is reached in New Castle. Like other worthwhile objectives it has been a long task but today marks the actual start of the construction of the cavalry unit's permanent home.

Back in 1904 when the late Major Joseph V. Cunningham organized Troop F he visioned the day when the troop would be housed in a proper armory. Major Cunningham enlisted the support of other citizens who worked towards the same end, but unfortunately many of them passed on before any materialization of their efforts could be seen.

Troop F has deserved proper quarters for many years. In the 28th division of the National Guard it occupies a high rank in the esteem of the commanding officers. It has demonstrated its usefulness many times, the most recent being in the flood zone in Sharpsburg.

Within a few short months the new armory will be ready, it is hoped. On that day when it is formally dedicated for service those men of New Castle who have worked so consistently for its consummation can mark off another objective reached.

On that dedication day whenever it is, it would be a graceful tribute to the founder of the troop if the armory could be known as the "Joseph V. Cunningham Armory."

TRAIL OF A TWISTER

Hardly has the country settled down to the task of rehabilitation following recession of the flood waters of the Northeastern States when a new disaster strikes with the swiftness of lightning and leaves behind a trail of death and devastation.

Tornadoes, such as that which has whirled across the South from Arkansas to South Carolina, bring with them a little less restricted variety of horrors than floods, regardless of the proportions that may be assumed by swollen waters.

Homes and other buildings have been reduced to kindling by the fierce winds. Occupants, caught without a moments' notice of impending disaster, have been buried in the ruins and killed. In many cases fires have added to the terror and the anguish.

Reports from the stricken areas of 500 deaths, injuries to 3,000 and property damage of $20,000,000 naturally touch the sympathies of the nation. This feeling of compassion must be expressed in tangible form when the call for help comes.

THE COLD OF OTHER DAYS

Citizens who find it difficult to agree on any given subject will unite in declaring that this has been in all respects a miserable and a severe winter. Apparently, the end is not yet, but by searching through the pages of history back to the year 859, when the Adriatic froze from Cattaro to the Italian shore, we find items of interest that may enable us to endure the unpleasant aspects of the present times.

During the winter of 1607-8 the ice lay so thick on the Thames that boats were built on it. December 14, 1708, was so cold in New England that trees exploded and grain and many vines were killed. Nine years later, householders in Boston walked out of their garret windows onto the snow. In 1780 the heaviest cannon of the time was moved across the ice of New York Harbor, while Chesapeake Bay was a solid mass from shore to shore and winter birds in many northern areas were exterminated. In February, 1717, a combination of blizzard and bitter cold smothered 1,100 sheep beneath sixteen feet of snow at New London, Connecticut.

In comparison, the recent winter has been a mild and even balmy season, a circumstance which does not lessen our eagerness for the chirp of a bluebird and the breath of spring.

SERVICE

As the reign of King Edward VIII of England settles down to the jog trot of day by day familiarity it becomes increasingly evident that he is a regular person. If one telephones to St. James Palace to propound an intelligent question, it is not impossible one will find himself talking to the king himself, who does not need intermediaries to transact business.

This was the experience of the owner of Reynoldstown, winner of the Grand National steeplechase at Aintree, who telephoned the palace to find out the right way to reply to a telegram of congratulation from the king and was told at once by royalty itself that he need not go to all that trouble, as his thanks were there and then accepted. So that little matter was settled to the king's taste. Major Noel Furlong then had a little talk with the king and the chances are he will always be a most loyal subject.

Humanness mixed with tact carries just as far with kings as with lesser persons. Especially does it have weight with telephoning, a skitterish proceeding when entered upon by the tactless. A minor employee of the palace might have high-hatted the inquirer to the damage of everybody concerned. Instead, the king attended to the job with complete efficiency and made a friend for life. Respectfully referred to all answerers of telephone calls.

Machines won't do everything in the next war. A machine can't lick the top-sergeant's boots.

This is the season when any loose dog that doesn't belong to anybody in sight is a "maddog."

Knowing you can add two and two is mere recognition of a fact, but it seems conceit to those who can't.

The Japs are making it easy for China, like the kind-hearted man who cut off his dog's tail a little at a time.

But how it will hurt when youngsters discover they aren't entitled to something merely because they need it.

If kindly humane deeds count for anything, Edward VIII is going to make this king business the most popular job in "Merrie England."

Under changed conditions old truths sometimes seem hard to believe. The federal treasury, only a few years ago, made bank notes smaller, to save paper.

Tornadoes In Six States.
Marilyn Miller Dead.
What Books For Sailors.
Another Big Question.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

A SUDDEN tornado outbreak has struck six states, eleven cities and towns. 437 dead already known, millions in property destroyed.

These tornadoes strike at random, with inconceivable fury. At Gainesville, Ga., where a monument stands to the first doctor to operate under anaesthesia, the lower end of a tapering, whirling cyclone leveled one building, scattering fragments, not injuring buildings on either side.

This writer, in Kansas City, when young, accomponied by a charming St. Louis girl named Cora Baker, in days when Col. Coates was still alive, followed from the Coates house in a two-horse hack behind a cyclone that had come down the Missouri river and climbed up over the Kansas City bluff.

That cyclone cut houses in two as a knife cuts butter, tearing away one-half of a room, not disturbing furniture in the other half. You may follow a cyclone safely, it never turns around.

FROM CORDELE, Ga., Mr. Anderson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, telegraphs describing appalling loss of life and property, urging contributions to the Red Cross. The situation presents a job too big

BEAUTIFUL TO SEE

There is beauty a-plenty on this wide earth, waiting for the eye, the mind, the heart, waiting only to be found.

A great field of flowers is beautiful, startling to the eye. . . . Bend low and pick one tiny, almost unseen flower, smaller than the little fingernail of a baby, and see how delicate, how exquisitely planned, that small thing is.

A tree with all its green leaves is fair indeed. That . . . same tree stripped of its foliage, standing bare on the hillside, may be grander still.

Home is a fair place to be, home where a family's heart should be. . . . Go away from that home, come back to it after long wandering—how fair that homely place seems to the returning man!

Doing the family wash, that's drudgery. . . . See a woman in the yard, putting the wash on the line. Observe the graceful movement of her arms above her head as she places the clothespins.

The farmer's life is a hard one. . . . Have you ever seen a farmer standing on a knoll, his day's work done, looking out over his fields and his trees, well content?

Little girls can be awfully silly. . . . But there is beauty in that flushed, secret delight of a little girl who is treasuring her first compliment from a BOY.

The killer may ma[illegible] run cold. . . . But there [illegible] beauty in the mountain l[illegible] ed for the kill, in the hu[illegible] soaring high over the hill.

Some work is dreary to[illegible] there is beauty in the swift [illegible] cision of a mechanic who knows [illegible] job.

Just Folks

FISHING

My grandfather said with a toss of his head,
As he sat at the fire making flies,
Tying silk upon hooks for his old leather books
And being mighty proud of his ties:
"Oh, the sport is a joy! But remember, my boy,
Only hungry men work for the dish.
The creel's but a part of this glorious art;
There is much more to fishing than fish.

"From spring unto fall I can answer the call
To go out on my favorite streams,
And when wintry winds bite I can sit here at night,
Enjoying my fancies and dreams.
For the soul can be stirred, both by blossom and bird,
And the wonders that lie all about.
There are volumes of lore it's a joy to explore;
Oh, there's much more to fishing than trout.

"It's not all in the catch; there's a thrill in the hatch,
And knowing the birds by their song.
There's the tying of hooks and the reading of books,
Which last a man all his life long;
Not a fisher man he who contented can be
With the whirr of the reel and the swish
Of a taut running line, for the art is too fine!
There is much more to fishing than fish."

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:32. Sun rises tomorrow 5:31.

Some efficiency expert has figured out that in one year the people of the United States spend two million dollars for rat poison and rat traps. Again leading up to that old question: "Why is a rat?" Maybe to make business for manufacturers of traps and rat poison.

After walking on ice for a greater part of the winter it's mighty nice to get our old dogs on "terra cotta" again. Some of us twisted our legs so badly that it's going to take a real "pull" to get them straight again. And as for bumps and bruises, we'll soon be able to sit down again.

Before the days of the depression "a grand" used to be a piano, but now it's a $1,000.

There is talk of putting another cent tax on a gallon of gasoline in Pennsylvania when the legislature meets in special session. In some states the tax is eight or ten cents, so we are not so bad off yet.

It [illegible] real cause for alarm, to our way of thinking, when one can't get up in time for work in the morning.

Harlansburg has been very much in the limelight since the Perry highway was built. Several persons have lost their lives at the "death trap" east of town, and the latest disaster is the burning of a large garage. Nothing like that ever happened when the stage coach brought in the mail and the blacksmith shod the horses.

By the time a man has learned how to handle money he has lost it.

It has been demonstrated in this valley that floods can be controlled. Money spent for that purpose is money saved. And by the way, the removal of the Rosena dam wasn't such a terrible mistake after all. What a lot of yapping there was about getting that dam out! And it has been proven that a lot of birds did not know what they were beefing about.

The boss of the family is the one who never has to explain what became of that five dollars.

It is only the stew who has wisdom enough, when he runs into a fire hydrant, to claim the darned thing was coming down the avenue sixty miles an hour—"And judge, on the wrong side of the street!"

A young chap in Beaver county got from three to ten years for stealing sixty cents. If he had not slugged his victim he may not even have been arrested. It's all in the way stealing is done.

While the airport proposition is up in the air, someone has suggested that it be brought to terra firma at Cunningham park. We don't know whether it's suitable for high fliers or not, but we do know that some mighty good corn and potatoes have been raised on that land. If there's any use to which it can be put, it ought to be done, as we seem to be long on parks and short on vegetables.

Over in London a baby was born to a count and countess, and the blessed event was heralded all over the world. The baby wasn't any different from thousands of others born on the same day, but the parents, or at least one of them was of royal blood and the other an American heiress. So the worshipers of royalty and wealth laid off work and beat the tom-toms.

A woman is a person who won't pay $20 for a $3 cotton table cover unless a peddler tells her it is Irish linen.

The authorities keep saying the gangster must go, and he does—he goes places and does wicked things.

We got tired going to Washington to see the Jap cherry blossoms and we are now raising our own. They come later but are just as nice.

The grouch is his own worst enemy, and the only friend who will tolerate him.

Great leader: An ordinary man plus opportunity plus the imagination of the hero-worshiping crowd.

But people wouldn't be satisfied if they all had the same big income. They couldn't feel superior to one another.

Succotash is just a name that resulted from a friendly association.

Shirley Temple has her life insured for nearly two million dollars. Insurance companies were anxious to take her. The reason for it was the good care being taken of her and the fact that she did not use alcohol or use cigarettes.

The three most beautiful words in the English language, "Enclosed Find Check."

Americanism: Urging Junior to speak softly like a little gentleman; keeping the radio wide open so he must howl to be heard.

Another thing a lot of us have been interested in for some years is the armory about to be built now. It always takes a lot of arguing and opposition to get anything. We should have had a new court house and viaduct also.

Punch boards wouldn't be such a terrible crime if there were only more winning numbers and were closer together.

President Roosevelt sent home one of the battleships that was with him on his fishing trip. He still has several of them with him in addition a fleet of airplanes and automobiles. He also has a big flock of soldiers around handy. The president sure has big things to enjoy himself with.

Suckers are people who think a man great because he is cheered by so many suckers.

Pap says if it is really true that anger poisons the entire system, Mother must be in a critical condition.

Just as in jails there are fewer women in the poorhouses than there are men. Relatives seem to take care of women better than they do men.

While funerals are not pleasant things to think about, at the same time it's not a bad idea to know all about one—costs, etc.

There is a natural human interest that is gratified by watching the ice go off. We like to hear the rumbling and grating as it cracks, and watch the water boiling up between the fissures. It's a picture of force and power, made more spectacular when it gorges. Nature made ice lighter than water so that the streams would carry it off, and not clutter up their beds when the swimmin' season opens.

One of the big problems in some of the smaller towns these days is who is going to get the postoffice. Some folks are laying awake nights thinking about it. Somehow the postoffice never seems to seek the man, and the man has to burn his hands pulling wires before he ever gets a chance to lick a stamp or read a postal card.

Correct this sentence: "I have an agreement with competitors to keep the price up," said the dealer, "So I can't offer any discount to get your order."

It is said that congress is going to make another of its "sweeping" inquiries into over-lapping agencies. You are going to hear a lot about these investigations during the next six months, but little or nothing will be done about it. With an election coming on be prepared for bunk and bulldozing.

When a nation begins to talk of its "destiny," it is time for the others to hide everything that makes loot.

Nature made man more industrious than other animals. You see, he's the only one that is naughty when he's idle.

We have some "high steppers" and also some "waders" in New Castle according to recent observations. When the ice was melting and water was running down the gutters we saw women with overshoes on who just waded through, and other with no overshoes, who jumped. Some of them cleared four feet or more. Score another point for short skirts.

Good Taste

By FRANCINE MARKEL

By FRANCINE MARKEL

DEAR MISS MARKEL: Is it incorrect to keep photographs of one's family on display in the home? Just where is the proper place to hang them? JESSIE.

Answer: You should not maintain your living room, library, dining room—or any other room wherein you entertain guests—as a gallery for the display of likenesses of the members of your family.

Of course, if you have a family miniature or other portrait that is of artistic value, by all means hang it as conspicuously as you wish.

A small photograph in a standing frame, placed on a table or desk, is likewise ornamental.

But since the living room, especially, is used to entertain strangers, as well as friends, it is in better taste to select for it pictures of an impersonal nature and confine your family portraits, photographic or otherwise, to your den, boudoir or bedroom.

Landon Seen As Victor.
May Win On Second Ballot.
Funds Question Of Campaign.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

WISEACRES VIEWING the Republican nomination situation from a mid-continent point of view are saying, "Landon will win on the second ballot at the Cleveland convention."

Certain it is he will come to the convention with close to the necessary 501 votes.

Former President Hoover's erstwhile lieutenants are reputed to have decided to support Landon. That means the southern bloc will be for him.

But Mr. Hoover, himself, remains opposed to Governor Landon. Secretly he undoubtedly favors himself, with Col. Frank Knox, second.

SHAKEUP

Energetically - minded Republicans are worried over the lackadaisical administration of the national Republican committee under Chairman Henry P. Fletcher and the Old Guard. The committee as now arranged is a good one for obtaining "war funds"—but its administrative ability is under attack.

It is presumed, if Landon wins the G. O. P. nomination, that energetic John D. M. Hamilton, his campaign manager, would become national chairman, supported by his assistant, Oscar Stauffer.

WELL-KNIT

On the Democratic side, as there is no question over the renomination of President Roosevelt, the national committee is functioning exceedingly well.

James A. Farley may be attacked as a politician first and last, but in between one must concede his behind-the-scenes organizing ability.

Indeed, there are wagers that when campaign time rolls around there will not be a single dissenting voice with the Democratic party—that everyone either will go down the line for a New Deal victory, or remain quiet. The shouting dissenters of the past months probably will not even "take a walk". There is no place to go.

CAMPAIGN FUNDS

The Republicans (the Democrats say) will have all the money they desire.

The Democrats will have some difficulty. Their chief source will be office holders.

Democrats further charge that Republicans will seek "invisible" means as well as "visible" methods of conveying money. A congressional investigating committee, dominated by Democrats and progressive Republicans will be on their trail.

Republicans will denounce this as unwarranted snooping and charge the Democrats with utilizing relief funds to gain votes.

Democrats will shout that Big Business is trying to buy the election through the Republicans. And—as for the relief funds—if the Republicans believe that mess is of any value to the Democrats just let them come close and see the worried Democratic brows.

MOVEMENTS

Once upon a time it was believed that some "mass" movements would play a leading part in the election. But unless movements take hold while they are "hot", they cool off, and like exploding meteors scatter away into infinity.

Who will have faith in the Townsend plan following the present congressional investigation? That is what political leaders are saying. They add, now (but did not a year or so ago) that a broad federal social security program is needed, and must come, but the fantastic Townsend plan merely would have postponed meeting realities, with grave consequences to everyone.

The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, still speaking to immense radio audiences, enters new fields of attack, which alienate people. Those people believe that many of his ideas, instead of freeing them economically, might bind them into the slavery of a fascism. The organized worker is becoming definitely afraid that Father Coughlin might lead him to such a plight as befell the workers who followed the siren calls of Mussolini and Hitler.

Yet, Father Coughlin still has a large following, and with this back of him, he is catechizing congressmen and threatening them with defeat, where he is strongest.

Then, there is the movement that promised to be the most powerful of all—the "share-the-wealth" movement of the late Senator Huey P. Long. It was woven around his personality—and it collapsed with his death. Not that "share-the-wealth" ideas ever will fade. In the natural state of evolution, a larger and larger share of what a man produces will become his—and the state (the people as a whole) will play a greater and greater part in the life of a man. But that is a movement far broader, far more significant than a Huey Long could conceive. He was his own little Hitler. And the Hitlers merely are a passing phase in this tremendous world development.

BEG PARDON:

E. E. Eidenier, who told of a young man having been hanged on circumstantial evidence and the real culprit being found eight months later, said we made a mistake in the place. He asserts: "That was not 'near East Liverpool, O.,' as you said, for Columbiana county never has had a hanging, but in Mahoning county, Ohio."

Today's Yesterday's, April 9, 1553—"Draw the curtain: the farce is ended." With these words Francois Rabelais, priest and physician, died at 70. His will was another jest: "I possess nothing; the rest I give to the poor."

What he possessed was immortality; what he gave to the world was the classic Gargantua and Pantagruel, "the most astonishing single work of wit, wisdom, common-sense, satire, bawdiness—and dullness, in all literature."

April 9, 1852—John Howard Payne, died. Upon his funeral day a critic prophecized: "Payne will be remembered as the author of 'Brutus, or the Fall of Tarquin' long after 'Home, Sweet Home' has ceased to be sung."

Payne had a home at the time "Home Sweet, Home," which has never ceased to be sung, while "Brutus" is forgotten. It was written in collaboration with Sir Henry Bishop for an opera.

April 9, 1863—The end. The Old Flag Vindicated. Lee and His Whole Army Surrendered.

This was the way the Chicago Tribune one column-headlined the news of the surrender of Gen. R. E. Lee, C. S. A., to Lieut. Gen. U. S. Grant at 3:30 p. m., on Palm Sunday, at Appomattox Court House, 25 miles east of Lynchburg, Va. Grant did not ask for Lee's sword and it was not offered.

Lee had only 28,000 men left to surrender. However, it wasn't Grant's guns that had decimated his ranks so greatly. More than 72,000 men deserted Lee between October 1864 and March 1865.

It's True—In 50 years he was a member of the British House of Lords, as a Scottish representative peer, the Earl of Morton did not utter one word in the deliberations.

Mark J. Goodger of Chicago has read the Bible from cover to cover 35 times.

James Oven, Jugoslav farmer, drew from his foot a bullet which entered his head 21 years before. Not until 18 years after Moses Yopp of New Britain, Conn., accidentally discharged a gun while cleaning it, did he discover that he had been shot and that he was carrying around a bullet. "I didn't know I was loaded," he could have said.

He had his nerve: a plagarist made a copy of "This Strange Adventure," by Mary Roberts Rinehart, put his own name upon it, and sent it to Farrar and Rinehart (the latter being Mrs. Rinehart's son) as his own work!

In a checkup of graduates, Harvard found two who listed their respective occupations as "idiot" and "drunkard".

It is our regret that the item appearing in this column which attracted more letters than any other statement made here, was incorrect. We have ascertained that U. S. public lands have now been withdrawn from use, and 165,000,000 acres reserved for public domain.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

After the farm people in southeastern Nebraska were kept at home several weeks by the deep snows, the business men of Falls City appreciated more than ever before what farm trade means to them.

When the roads were open again, Falls City storekeepers were so glad to have the farmers back that they declared a holiday and invited all of them for miles around to come to town and have all the pancakes they wanted to eat at their expense.

The farmers responded, too, 5,000 of them coming in for the day by auto, team and wagon, horseback and on foot. Just how many thousand pancakes were served was not even estimated but the women who prepared and served them were kept busy without a letup from 10 o'clock in the morning until five in the afternoon.

Correctly Speaking—

"Greatly" or "highly" should not be used after "appreciate", since "appreciate" means to place a sufficiently high value.

When the fool argues against something, he always says it is nonsense "to us intelligent people."

ANOTHER OBJECTIVE REACHED

AS THE ground is broken today for the new armory for Troop F, another objective is reached in New Castle. Like other worthwhile objectives it has been a long task but today marks the actual start of the construction of the cavalry unit's permanent home.

Back in 1904 when the late Major Joseph V. Cunningham organized Troop F he visioned the day when the troop would be housed in a proper armory. Major Cunningham enlisted the support of other citizens who worked towards the same end, but unfortunately many of them passed on before any materialization of their efforts could be seen.

Troop F has deserved proper quarters for many years. In the 28th division of the National Guard it occupies a high rank in the esteem of the commanding officers. It has demonstrated its usefulness many times, the most recent being in the flood zone in Sharpsburg.

Within a few short months the new armory will be ready, it is hoped. On that day when it is formally dedicated for service those men of New Castle who have worked so consistently for its consummation can mark off another objective reached.

On that dedication day whenever it is, it would be a graceful tribute to the founder of the troop if the armory could be known as the "Joseph V. Cunningham Armory."

TRAIL OF A TWISTER

Hardly has the country settled down to the task of rehabilitation following recession of the flood waters of the Northeastern States when a new disaster strikes with the swiftness of lightning and leaves behind a trail of death and devastation.

Tornadoes, such as that which has whirled across the South from Arkansas to South Carolina, bring with them a little less restricted variety of horrors than floods, regardless of the proportions that may be assumed by swollen waters.

Homes and other buildings have been reduced to kindling by the fierce winds. Occupants, caught without a moments' notice of impending disaster, have been buried in the ruins and killed. In many cases fires have added to the terror and the anguish.

Reports from the stricken areas of 500 deaths, injuries to 3,000 and property damage of $20,000,000 naturally touch the sympathies of the nation. This feeling of compassion must be expressed in tangible form when the call for help comes.

THE COLD OF OTHER DAYS

Citizens who find it difficult to agree on any given subject will unite in declaring that this has been in all respects a miserable and a severe winter. Apparently, the end is not yet, but by searching through the pages of history back to the year 859, when the Adriatic froze from Cattaro to the Italian shore, we find items of interest that may enable us to endure the unpleasant aspects of the present times.

During the winter of 1607-8 the ice lay so thick on the Thames that boats were built on it. December 14, 1708, was so cold in New England that trees exploded and grain and many vines were killed. Nine years later, householders in Boston walked out of their garret windows onto the snow. In 1780 the heaviest cannon of the time was moved across the ice of New York Harbor, while Chesapeake Bay was a solid mass from shore to shore and winter birds in many northern areas were exterminated. In February, 1717, a combination of blizzard and bitter cold smothered 1,100 sheep beneath sixteen feet of snow at New London, Connecticut.

In comparison, the recent winter has been a mild and even balmy season, a circumstance which does not lessen our eagerness for the chirp of a bluebird and the breath of spring.

SERVICE

As the reign of King Edward VIII of England settles down to the jog trot of day by day familiarity it becomes increasingly evident that he is a regular person. If one telephones to St. James Palace to propound an intelligent question, it is not impossible one will find himself talking to the king himself, who does not need intermediaries to transact business.

This was the experience of the owner of Reynoldstown, winner of the Grand National steeplechase at Aintree, who telephoned the palace to find out the right way to reply to a telegram of congratulation from the king and was told at once by royalty itself that he need not go to all that trouble, as his thanks were there and then accepted. So that little matter was settled to the king's taste. Major Noel Furlong then had a little talk with the king and the chances are he will always be a most loyal subject.

Humanness mixed with tact carries just as far with kings as with lesser persons. Especially does it have weight with telephoning, a skittish proceeding when entered upon by the tactless. A minor employee of the palace might have high-hatted the inquirer to the damage of everybody concerned. Instead, the king attended to the job with complete efficiency and made a friend for life. Respectfully referred to all answerers of telephone calls.

Machines won't do everything in the next war. A machine can't lick the top-sergeant's boots.

This is the season when any loose dog that doesn't belong to anybody in sight is a "maddog."

Knowing you can add two and two is mere recognition of a fact, but it seems conceit to those who can't.

The Japs are making it easy for China, like the kind-hearted man who cut off his dog's tail a little at a time.

But how it will hurt when youngsters discover they aren't entitled to something merely because they need it.

If kindly humane deeds count for anything, Edward VIII is going to make this king business the most popular job in "Merrie England."

Under changed conditions old truths sometimes seem hard to believe. The federal treasury, only a few years ago, made bank notes smaller, to save paper.

Tornadoes In Six States.
Marilyn Miller Dead.
What Books For Sailors.
Another Big Question.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

A SUDDEN tornado outbreak has struck six states, eleven cities and towns. 437 dead already known, millions in property destroyed.

These tornadoes strike at random, with inconceivable fury. At Gainesville, Ga., where a monument stands to the first doctor to operate under anaesthesia, the lower end of a tapering, whirling cyclone leveled one building, scattering fragments, not injuring buildings on either side.

This writer, in Kansas City, when young, accomponied by a charming St. Louis girl named Cora Baker, in days when Col. Coates was still alive, followed from the Coates house in a two-horse hack behind a cyclone that had come down the Missouri river and climbed up over the Kansas City bluff.

That cyclone cut houses in two as a knife cuts butter, tearing away one-half of a room, not disturbing furniture in the other half. You may follow a cyclone safely, it never turns around.

FROM CORDELE, Ga., Mr. Anderson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, telegraphs describing appalling loss of life and property, urging contributions to the Red Cross. The situation presents a job too big

BEAUTIFUL TO SEE

There is beauty a-plenty on this wide earth, waiting for the eye, the mind, the heart, waiting only to be found.

A great field of flowers is beautiful, startling to the eye. . . . Bend low and pick one tiny, almost unseen flower, smaller than the little fingernail of a baby, and see how delicate, how exquisitely planned, that small thing is.

A tree with all its green leaves is fair indeed. That . . . same tree stripped of its foliage, standing bare on the hillside, may be grander still.

Home is a fair place to be, home where a family's heart should be. . . . Go away from that home, come back to it after long wandering—how fair that homely place seems to the returning man!

Doing the family wash, that's drudgery. . . . See a woman in the yard, putting the wash on the line. Observe the graceful movement of her arms above her head as she places the clothespins.

The farmer's life is a hard one. . . . Have you ever seen a farmer standing on a knoll, his day's work done, looking out over his fields and his trees, well content?

Little girls can be awfully silly. . . . But there is beauty in that flushed, secret delight of a little girl who is treasuring her first compliment from a BOY.

The killer may make the blood run cold. . . . But there is a terrible beauty in the mountain lion crouched for the kill, in the hunting eagle soaring high over the hill.

Some work is dreary toil, but there is beauty in the swift precision of a mechanic who knows his job.

FISHING

My grandfather said with a toss of his head,
As he sat at the fire making flies,
Tying silk upon hooks for his old leather books
And being mighty proud of his ties:
"Oh, the sport is a joy! But remember, my boy,
Only hungry men work for the dish.
The creel's but a part of this glorious art;
There is much more to fishing than fish.

"From spring unto fall I can answer the call
To go out on my favorite streams,
And when wintry winds bite I can sit here at night,
Enjoying my fancies and dreams.
For the soul can be stirred, both by blossom and bird,
And the wonders that lie all about.
There are volumes of lore it's a joy to explore;
Oh, there's much more to fishing than trout.

"It's not all in the catch; there's a thrill in the hatch,
And knowing the birds by their song.
There's the tying of hooks and the reading of books,
Which last a man all his life long;
Not a fisher man he who contented can be
With the whirr of the reel and the swish
Of a taut running line, for the art is too fine!
There is much more to fishing than fish."

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:32. Sun rises tomorrow 5:31.

Some efficiency expert has figured out that in one year the people of the United States spend two million dollars for rat poison and rat traps. Again leading up to that old question: "Why is a rat?" Maybe to make business for manufacturers of traps and rat poison.

After walking on ice for a greater part of the winter it's mighty nice to get our old dogs on "terra cotta" again. Some of us twisted our legs so badly that it's going to take a real "pull" to get them straight again. And as for bumps and bruises, we'll soon be able to sit down again.

Before the days of the depression "a grand" used to be a piano, but now it's a $1,000.

There is talk of putting another cent tax on a gallon of gasoline in Pennsylvania when the legislature meets in special session. In some states the tax is eight or ten cents, so we are not so bad off yet.

Dr. Zadok Dumbkopf, psuedo-scientist has devised an insulated suit of electrified underwear to combat the intense cold in winters such as we have just had. It would be O. K. if someone didn't short circuit.

Some women marry for love and others just for contentment, which is probably a great deal better than tempestuous battling and making up again.

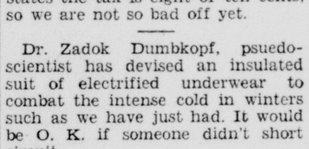

A local man, just returning from abroad, says that Mae West is playing second fiddle as the inspiration of jokes on the continent. He says that Premier Goering is the butt of most European jokes and stories.

It is a real cause for alarm, to our way of thinking, when one can't get up in time for work in the morning.

Harlansburg has been very much in the limelight since the Perry highway was built. Several persons have lost their lives at the "death trap" east of town, and the latest disaster is the burning of a large garage. Nothing like that ever happened when the stage coach brought in the mail and the blacksmith shod the horses.

By the time a man has learned how to handle money he has lost it.

It has been demonstrated in this valley that floods can be controlled. Money spent for that purpose is money saved. And by the way, the removal of the Rosena dam wasn't such a terrible mistake after all. What a lot of yapping there was about getting that dam out! And it has been proven that a lot of birds did not know what they were beefing about.

The boss of the family is the one who never has to explain what became of that five dollars.

It is only the stew who has wisdom enough, when he runs into a fire hydrant, to claim the darned thing was coming down the avenue sixty miles an hour—"And judge, on the wrong side of the street!"

A young chap in Beaver county got from three to ten years for stealing sixty cents. If he had not slugged his victim he may not even have been arrested. It's all in the way stealing is done.

While the airport proposition is up in the air, someone has suggested that it be brought to terre firma at Cunningham park. We don't know whether it's suitable for high fliers or not, but we do know that some mighty good corn and potatoes have been raised on that land. If there's any use to which it can be put, it ought to be done, as we seem to be long on parks and short on vegetables.

Over in London a baby was born to a count and countess, and the blessed event was heralded all over the world. The baby wasn't any different from thousands of others born on the same day, but the parents, or at least one of them was of royal blood and the other an American heiress. So the worshipers of royalty and wealth laid off work and beat the tom-toms.

A woman is a person who won't pay $20 for a $3 cotton table cover unless a peddler tells her it is Irish linen.

The authorities keep saying the gangster must go, and he does—he goes places and does wicked things.

We got tired going to Washington to see the Jap cherry blossoms and we are now raising our own. They come later but are just as nice.

The grouch is his own worst enemy, and the only friend who will tolerate him.

But people wouldn't be satisfied if they all had the same big income. They couldn't feel superior to one another.

Succotash is just a name that resulted from a friendly association.

Shirley Temple has her life insured for nearly two million dollars. Insurance companies were anxious to take her. The reason for it was the good care being taken of her and the fact that she did not use alcohol or use cigarettes.

Americanism: Urging Junior to speak softly like a little gentleman; keeping the radio wide open so he must howl to be heard.

Another thing a lot of us have been interested in for some years is the armory about to be built now. It always takes a lot of arguing and opposition to get anything. We should have had a new court house and viaduct also.

Punch boards wouldn't be such a terrible crime if there were only more winning numbers and were closer together.

President Roosevelt sent home one of the battleships that was with him on his fishing trip. He still has several of them with him in addition a fleet of airplanes and automobiles. He also has a big flock of soldiers around handy. The president sure has big things to enjoy himself with.

Suckers are people who think a man great because he is cheered by so many suckers.

Pap says if it is really true that anger poisons the entire system, Mother must be in a critical condition.

Just as in jails there are fewer women in the poorhouses than there are men. Relatives seem to take care of women better than they do men.

While funerals are not pleasant things to think about, at the same time it's not a bad idea to know all about one—costs, etc.

There is a natural human interest that is gratified by watching the ice go off. We like to hear the rumbling and grating as it cracks, and watch the water boiling up between the fissures. It's a picture of force and power, made more spectacular when it gorges. Nature made ice lighter than water so that the streams would carry it off, and not clutter up their beds when the swimmin' season opens.

One of the big problems in some of the smaller towns these days is who is going to get the postoffice. Some folks are laying awake nights thinking about it. Somehow the postoffice never seems to seek the man, and the man has to burn his hands pulling wires before he ever gets a chance to lick a stamp or read a postal card.

Correct this sentence: "I have an agreement with competitors to keep the price up," said the dealer, "So I can't offer any discount to get your order."

It is said that congress is going to make another of its "sweeping" inquiries into over-lapping agencies. You are going to hear a lot about these investigations during the next six months, but little or nothing will be done about it. With an election coming on be prepared for bunk and bulldozing.

When a nation begins to talk of its "destiny," it is time for the others to hide everything that makes loot.

Nature made man more industrious than other animals. You see, he's the only one that is naughty when he's idle.

We have some "high steppers" and also some "waders" in New Castle according to recent observations. When the ice was melting and water was running down the gutters we saw women with overshoes on who just waded through, and other with no overshoes, who jumped. Some of them cleared four feet or more. Score another point for short skirts.

Good Taste

By FRANCINE MARKEL

By FRANCINE MARKEL

DEAR MISS MARKEL: Is it incorrect to keep photographs of one's family on display in the home? Just where is the proper place to hang them? JESSIE.

Answer: You should not maintain your living room, library, dining room—or any other room wherein you entertain guests—as a gallery for the display of likenesses of the members of your family.

Of course, if you have a family miniature or other portrait that is of artistic value, by all means hang it as conspicuously as you wish.

A small photograph in a standing frame, placed on a table or desk, is likewise ornamental.

But since the living room, especially, is used to entertain strangers, as well as friends, it is in better taste to select for it pictures of an impersonal nature and confine your family portraits, photographic or otherwise, to your den, boudoir or bedroom.

Landon Seen As Victor.
May Win On Second Ballot.
Funds Question Of Campaign.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

WISEACRES VIEWING the Republican nomination situation from a mid-continent point of view are saying, "Landon will win on the second ballot at the Cleveland convention."

Certain it is he will come to the convention with close to the necessary 501 votes.

Former President Hoover's erstwhile lieutenants are reputed to have decided to support Landon. That means the southern bloc will be for him.

But Mr. Hoover, himself, remains opposed to Governor Landon. Secretly he undoubtedly favors himself, with Col. Frank Knox, second.

SHAKEUP

Energetically - minded Republicans are worried over the lackadaisical administration of the national Republican committee under Chairman Henry P. Fletcher and the Old Guard. The committee as now arranged is a good one for obtaining "war funds"—but its administrative ability is under attack.

It is presumed, if Landon wins the G. O. P. nomination, that energetic John D. M. Hamilton, his campaign manager, would become national chairman, supported by his assistant, Oscar Stauffer.

WELL-KNIT

On the Democratic side, as there is no question over the renomination of President Roosevelt, the national committee is functioning exceedingly well.

James A. Farley may be attacked as a politician first and last, but in between one must concede his behind-the-scenes organizing ability.

Indeed, there are wagers that when campaign time rolls around there will not be a single dissenting voice with the Democratic party—that everyone either will go down the line for a New Deal victory, or remain quiet. The shouting dissenters of the past months probably will not even "take a walk". There is no place to go.

CAMPAIGN FUNDS

The Republicans (the Democrats say) will have all the money they desire.

The Democrats will have some difficulty. Their chief source will be office holders.

Democrats further charge that Republicans will seek "invisible" means as well as "visible" methods of conveying money. A congressional investigating committee, dominated by Democrats and progressive Republicans will be on their trail.

Republicans will denounce this as unwarranted snooping and charge the Democrats with utilizing relief funds to gain votes.

Democrats will shout that Big Business is trying to buy the election through the Republicans. And—as for the relief funds—if the Republicans believe that mess is of any value to the Democrats just let them come close and see the worried Democratic brows.

MOVEMENTS

Once upon a time it was believed that some "mass" movements would play a leading part in the election. But unless movements take hold while they are "hot", they cool off, and like exploding meteors scatter away into infinity.

Who will have faith in the Townsend plan following the present congressional investigation? That is what political leaders are saying. They add, now (but did not a year or so ago) that a broad federal social security program is needed, and must come, but the fantastic Townsend plan merely would have postponed meeting realities, with grave consequences to everyone.

The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, still speaking to immense radio audiences, enters new fields of attack, which alienate people. Those people believe that many of his ideas, instead of freeing them economically, might bind them into the slavery of a fascism. The organized worker is becoming definitely afraid that Father Coughlin might lead him to such a plight as befell the workers who followed the siren calls of Mussolini and Hitler.

Yet, Father Coughlin still has a large following, and with this back of him, he is catechizing congressmen and threatening them with defeat, where he is strongest.

Then, there is the movement that promised to be the most powerful of all—the "share-the-wealth" movement of the late Senator Huey P. Long. It was woven around his personality—and it collapsed with his death. Not that "share-the-wealth" ideas ever will fade. In the natural state of evolution, a larger and larger share of what a man produces will become his—and the state (the people as a whole) will play a greater and greater part in the life of a man. But that is a movement far broader, far more significant than a Huey Long could conceive. He was his own little Hitler. And the Hitlers merely are a passing phase in this tremendous world development.

BEG PARDON:

E. E. Eidenier, who told of a young man having been hanged on circumstantial evidence and the real culprit being found eight months later, said we made a mistake in the place. He asserts: "That was not 'near East Liverpool, O.,' as you said, for Columbiana county never has had a hanging, but in Mahoning county, Ohio."

Today's Yesterday's, April 9, 1553—"Draw the curtain: the farce is ended." With these words Francois Rabelais, priest and physician, died at 70. His will was another jest: "I possess nothing; the rest I give to the poor."

What he possessed was immortality; what he gave to the world was the classic Gargantua and Pantagruel, "the most astonishing single work of wit, wisdom, common-sense, satire, bawdiness—and dullness, in all literature."

April 9, 1852—John Howard Payne, died. Upon his funeral day a critic prophecized: "Payne will be remembered as the author of 'Brutus, or the Fall of Tarquin' long after 'Home, Sweet Home' has ceased to be sung."

Payne had a home at the time "Home Sweet, Home," which has never ceased to be sung, while "Brutus" is forgotten. It was written in collaboration with Sir Henry Bishop for an opera.

April 9, 1863—The end. The Old Flag Vindicated. Lee and His Whole Army Surrendered.

This was the way the Chicago Tribune one column-headlined the news of the surrender of Gen. R. E. Lee, C. S. A., to Lieut. Gen. U. S. Grant at 3:30 p. m., on Palm Sunday, at Appomattox Court House, 25 miles east of Lynchburg, Va. Grant did not ask for Lee's sword and it was not offered.

Lee had only 28,000 men left to surrender. However, it wasn't Grant's guns that had decimated his ranks so greatly. More than 72,000 men deserted Lee between October 1864 and March 1865.

It's True—In 50 years he was a member of the British House of Lords, as a Scottish representative peer, the Earl of Morton did not utter one word in the deliberations.

Mark J. Goodger of Chicago has read the Bible from cover to cover 35 times.

James Oven, Jugoslav farmer, drew from his foot a bullet which entered his head 21 years before. Not until 18 years after Moses Yopp of New Britain, Conn., accidentally discharged a gun while cleaning it, did he discover that he had been shot and that he was carrying around a bullet. "I didn't know I was loaded," he could have said.

He had his nerve: a plagarist made a copy of "This Strange Adventure," by Mary Roberts Rinehart, put his own name upon it, and sent it to Farrar and Rinehart (the latter being Mrs. Rinehart's son) as his own work!

In a checkup of graduates, Harvard found two who listed their respective occupations as "idiot" and "drunkard".

It is our regret that the item appearing in this column which attracted more letters than any other statement made here, was incorrect. We have ascertained that U. S. public lands have now been withdrawn from use, and 165,000,000 acres reserved for public domain.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

After the farm people in southeastern Nebraska were kept at home several weeks by the deep snows, the business men of Falls City appreciated more than ever before what farm trade means to them.

When the roads were open again, Falls City storekeepers were so glad to have the farmers back that they declared a holiday and invited all of them for miles around to come to town and have all the pancakes they wanted to eat at their expense.

The farmers responded, too, 5,000 of them coming in for the day by auto, team and wagon, horseback and on foot. Just how many thousand pancakes were served was not even estimated but the women who prepared and served them were kept busy without a letup from 10 o'clock in the morning until five in the afternoon.

Correctly Speaking—

"Greatly" or "highly" should not be used after "appreciate", since "appreciate" means to place a sufficiently high value.

When the fool argues against something, he always says it is nonsense "to us intelligent people."

Commends Troop F For Flood Service

Troop F's conduct in Sharpsburg during the recent flood has drawn not only the commendation of the citizens of Sharpsburg but the highest praise from Colonel Milton G. Baker, commanding the 103rd regiment.

In a letter to Captain George F. Mitchell, commanding Troop F, Col. Baker has the following to say of the 56 New Castle boys who served eight days in Sharpsburg.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 3, 1936
Captain George F. Mitchell,
U. S. Postal Department,
New Castle, Pennsylvania.
My Dear Captain Mitchell:

You will be interested to know that I have heard nothing but the most favorable comment and reports on the splendid manner in which you and the personnel of "F" troop performed your duties during the recent flood disaster.

It is needless for me to add that it is a source of great pride to me, as the regimental commander, to realize that your quick decision, initiative and action reflect not only upon yourself, your troop and your regiment, but upon the Guard from which you come. Please convey to the members of your troop my great satisfaction in having such an organization in the regiment and I trust that this demonstration of efficiency will be but a stepping stone to greater efforts in making your troop the outstanding one in the 103rd cavalry.

A copy of this letter will be attached to your efficiency report for the period ending December 31, 1936.

With my kindest personal regards and best wishes, I am,

Sincerely yours,
MILTON G. BAKER,
Colonel, 103rd Cavalry, Commanding.

The experiences of Troop F in the flood zone were varied and interesting and in a recent address before the Officers Reserve Captain Mitchell described them in an interesting fashion.

AROUND CITY HALL

Glenn R. Throop, engineer for the city, stated today that he does not know the exact time when the street paving program will get under way here. He said difficulty is being experienced in getting sufficient stone. The paving base will be of crushed stone with a bituminous material top. Throop said that the stone gutter project has got under way. Gutters now are being laid in Chestnut street. After this thoroughfare has been completed the men will move to Oak street. According to statistics about 12 miles of stone gutter are to be laid.

According to Third class city law the first Monday in May will be the time for appointments as city solicitor and city engineer. It is not known at this time if there will be any change or whether there is a desire to make a change in those positions. However, under the state law they must come before council. They serve for four years as does the city clerk. However, in the latter's case, a city clerk is elected to serve four years, or until his successor is named.

A force of WPA employes have been making a downspout survey in different parts of the city and according to one of them he has found many downspouts connected with sanitary sewers which at times results in water backing into cellars.

Community Home Will Be Opened

(Special To The News)

MERCER, April 9.—Work on the interior of the Mercer Community home is practically completed and it is expected to have everything in readiness for a formal opening on next Tuesday night. The party will be sponsored by the Legion Auxiliary and will be in charge of the following committee; Mrs. Mabel Byers, Miss Henrietta Magoffin, Mrs. Helen Courtney and Mrs. Pearl White.

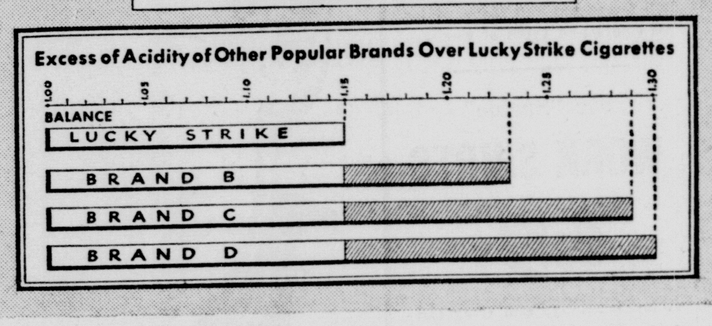

The Legion will sponsor a May party, which is to be reminiscent of the once popular party given annually by the Mercer Social Circle, and invitations are to be extended to former members of the club, and others of the "old timers" of the town. An effort is being made to secure an orchestra that can furnish dance music of the "gay nineties."

It's a little late, but what was the name of the movie comedy that made the girl laugh for nine days?

Luckies — a light smoke

Luckies are less acid

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO —"IT'S TOASTED"

MOISTURE CONTROL

The most important single attribute of cigarettes, other than the tobacco itself, is moisture content. To its influence we owe the ability to make uniform cigarettes, to control combustion, and to govern quality of smoke. Excessive moisture interferes with proper combustion, and makes cigarette smoke unpalatable. Insufficient moisture permits dry, dusty cigarette smoke to impinge upon the delicate mucous membrane of the smoker.

LUCKIES ARE LESS ACID!
Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

Ahepans Give Aid To Sufferers In Recent Floods

When the call for funds to aid flood sufferers was sent out by the American Red Cross during the recent flood, the New Castle Chapter, No. 87 of the Order of Ahepa, immediately sent in a check for $25.

In addition to that, Speer Marousis, district treasurer, sent out a call to the other 12 lodges in the district asking that they join in the work of aiding the stricken people.

One answer has already come in from the request, the Goodwill Chapter No. 303 of Mansfield, O., sending in a check for $25 on Wednesday. This check has already been turned over to Orville Potter, secretary of the Red Cross.

The president of the Goodwill chapter is James Georgiopoulos and the secretary is Spiro A. Breres. The prompt action of the Mansfield members is appreciated and will be followed by other chapters it is hoped.

New winter undies of silk and wool are being recommended this season. Snug-fitting union suits, as well as the two-piece variety, are available. These garments are knee-length, fit closely and do not make ugly bulges under well-fitting frocks. Especially appropriate for bleak afternoons at football games.

Milk Control Board Issues Drastic Rule

ERIE, Pa., April 9.—Milk dealers throughout Pennsylvania today were pondering an edict from the State Milk Control Board calling for the posting of a bond before licenses will be issued by the board.

The drastic rule, under which all dealers will be required to file a collateral, individual surety or corporate bond before receiving licenses, was issued by the board at a special meeting here.

Under its terms, the bond must equal in amount the largest month's business of the dealer during 1935 but no bond shall exceed $100,000.

Reason for its action, the board announced, is to prevent dealers from becoming delinquent in payments to farmers. Drastic enforcement of the bonding rule was promised in order to tighten up on such delinquents, said by board members to be spread over the state.

Question Man In Slaying Of Girl

New Suspect In Death Of Elizabeth Louden Will Be Grilled

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 9.—Edward Spiker, 34, of Walker's Mills, was to be questioned again today by county detectives in connection with the slaying of Elizabeth Louden, also of Walker's Mills, January 18.

Spiker, according to detectives, had previously testified he had been drinking with Robert Dreamer, in Carnegie, Pa., the afternoon of the murder. The woman's nude body was found in an icy stream a few weeks later, her head battered in. Dreamer is in the Washington county jail awaiting court action in connection with the slaying of Thelma Young in Washington, Pa., eight years ago, and was also suspected of the Louden murder, detectives said.

Spiker later changed his story, according to detectives, holding he was at work the night of the murder. Detectives said records of the Pennsylvania Railroad prove that he was not at work January 18.

Bond Denied To 'Numbers' Czar

Pittsburgh Judge Refuses To Release Murder Suspect On Bond

(International News Service)

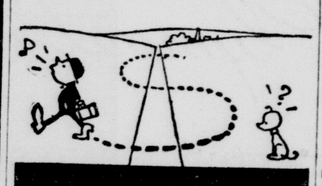

PITTSBURGH, April 9.—Ernest Weiland, reputed south side "numbers" czar, held for grand jury action on a charge of murder by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Clara Vetter, 68, landlady, was held without bond today following action by Judge Ralph H. Smith in criminal court.

In denying a request of Attorney James P. McArdle to release Weiland on bond, Judge Smith said:

"When a racketeer shoots a woman and leaves her lying in cold blood, he is going to stay where he is."

Mrs. Vetter was shot March 3 when she went to investigate a disturbance in Weiland's room. Weiland said he fired at hold-up men in self-defense.

for anything but the government, probably.

MARILYN MILLER is dead, only 37 years old. The little town of Findlay, Ohio, or the bigger town of New York, might well erect some monument in her memory.

She contributed a great deal to human cheerfulness and happiness, and it may be said of her, as Samuel Johnson said, referring to the death of the great actor, Garrick, that her death "eclipsed the gaiety of nations, and impoverished the public's stock of harmless pleasure."

THE AMERICAN Merchant Marine Library association supplies books for sailors on American merchant ships, and needs fifty thousand volumes to enrich its circulating library and replace wornout volumes.

What books would you send to sailors out of sight of land? First, perhaps, simply written books on astronomy describing things that they see overhead, telling how big they are. Then, a brief history of great sea fights, from Themistocles, defeating the Persians, in his "Walls of Wood," to Nelson at Trafalgar and John Paul Jones.

You would send a book on the blessings of solitude, if you could find a good one, several books of humor, the lonely sailor must need them, and exciting detective stories to offset dull shipboard routine. What other books?

A LADY who signs "B. A. G." is interested in very serious things. She writes:

"The more I hear of those big armies the more I am reminded of the huge population of hell. What is your idea of hell?"

That big question may be answered later. An aged colored man once told his pastor:

"I don't believe in hell, because I don't think any constitution could stand it."

IT WORRIES Me," says the lady, "that so many men are afraid of poverty here upon earth, and not afraid of hell."

Miss B. A. C. is certain that hell is real, a belief that must be comforting to those anxious to have the wicked punished.

THE MARK TWAIN Memorial committee has designed a "Mark Twain Memorial" almost perfect, except for the presentation of Mark Twain himself. . .He looks like a good-natured barber saying "next," and is out of place with the Mark Twain characters surrounding him, Joan of Arc, Huckleberry Finn and the rest.

The sculptor might show Mark Twain as he was when young, aboard the Mississippi steamer with all those characters, unborn in his brain, or beter, when he was old, thin, white-haired, his soul shining through his young eyes.

A RACKETEER wanted in New York as head of a vice ring trading in women has taken refuge at Little Rock, Ark., and is said to have been surprised when an Arkansas official declined to accept a bribe of $50,000.

Gunmen, eager to rescue this top-notch racketeer and said to be pouring into Arkansas, may find that state less "easy" than some others.

HAILE SELASSIE denies that he will sue for peace. He will continue fighting, says he, "until the last invader is driven out." That should take some time and reminds you of the czar's promise to fight to his last mujik.

At the beginning of the war, Haile Selassie said, according to W. W. Chaplin, Universal Service correspondent:

"I shall lead my army in person, on a huge white horse."

He was photographed on the horse, but it was too conspicuous for these machine gun, airplane days and he never went to battle.

WPA, in New York, says its labor does about seventy per cent as much as workers on private jobs. That seems a high percentage. A man who does not like his job, feels that it is "charity," and knows he will not be discharged, is not stimulated to do his best. There is power in the drive of necessity.

Air Force Plans By British Will Cost $50,000,000

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 9.—Britain's air force expansion program for 1936 alone will cost about $50,000,000, Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the Exchequer, told the House of Commons today in reply to questions.

Army and navy estimates, including appropriations for new shipbuilding, are still indefinite, Chamberlain said.

You may fill his head with education, but still his ideas will depend on how full his stomach is.

Flood Control Plans Pushed

Leaders Of Tri-State Area Decide Action Is Needed At Once

STEEL EXECUTIVE MAKES STATEMENT

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 9.—Acting while the memory of the St. Patrick's Day floods was still vivid, civic and industrial leaders pressed forward plans today to bring adequate flood protection to the tri-state area.

Following a meeting of almost fifty representatives of commercial, utility and industrial interests, plans were formulated to prevent possible delay or sidetracking of flood control measures now before congress.

Should Do Something

Urging that all river bordering communities join in a concerted movement, W. T. Mossman, of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, said:

"It is very easy to get excited when a record flood has just left our doorsills, and then cool off. We should seize this occasion to do something effective before we have a worse flood, which is always a possibility. Our immediate job is to make enough noise to encourage our congressmen to continue their efforts to get us real flood control. This is not a local measure; it is one which directly affects millions of people throughout the Ohio river basin. It should be presented and considered on that basis."

Italian Forces Have Hard Time To Keep Up To Selassie's Fleeing Troops

(International News Service)

ROME, April 9.—So rapidly are Italian troops pressing after Emperor Haile Selassie's retreating army that lines of communication cannot keep up with them, and they are forced to receive their supplies by air, Communique No. 180 revealed today.

"Chiefs and notables continue to submit to our colors in the Gondar region," said the brief message from the front.

"The air force has been very active in pursuing the enemy, and also supplying our columns marching southward."

Miss Lucille Emery, Laurel avenue, received as guests in her home Wednesday evening, members of the Tri-Quad Bridge club, and Mrs. Howard Keil, nee Mae Cromie, a former member now of Philadelphia, who is visiting in this vicinity for a few days. Also, Alice Mae Huffman, was a guest.

The occasion took the form of an Easter party, the hostess having arranged her table in an array of the season's novelties. Pink and yellow tones predominated, the center being adorned with a bouquet of flowers, guarded by tall tapers of the chosen colors. Most unique, were the "comic" Easter egg favors, marking each place, some being disguised as sailors, Indians, and other characters. Miss Grace Sankey and the hostess mother, Mrs. W. C. Emery, assisted with the tasty menu.

The hours that preceded, were spent in playing cards, trophies for honors going to Mrs. Keil and Miss Huffman.

On April 22, the club will be entertained in the home of Sylvia Lee Martin, Park avenue.

SO WRETCHED SHE PITIED HERSELF

Found The Way To Health In World's Tonic

"I got to pitying myself, I was so wretched six months ago," declared Mrs. Alex Luzell, who lives at Industry, Pa. My troubles started with a cold I caught about a year ago. It hung on for several weeks, and I coughed and spit a great deal. This all seemed to heal up, but it was followed by stomach trouble. Food did not do me any good. I got thin, and my skin took on a sallow color instead of the rosy tint that I had been so proud of. My eyes seemed so tired I did not enjoy reading, and at times I was dizzy, while my nerves got on edge so that I slept poorly. Nothing I tried seemed to relieve me. A repulsive rash broke out on my forehead, and I became so unattractive that I sincerely began to pity myself. One day in a drug store I heard a man tell the druggist how he had been relieved of stomach trouble by the use of World's Tonic. This conversation stuck in my mind, and a few days later I got this medicine for myself.

"You would hardly believe how quickly it benefited me. It was not two weeks until my appearance changed. The rash dried up, and my eyes grew better at once. In a few days my appetite returned. A week later my skin began to clear up and the sallowness disappeared. One night I slept clear through without awakening. I felt so much better the next morning that I did a big day's work—the first in many months. Now I have very little trouble of any kind. I look now as I used to, and I know I have found the way to perfect health through this wonderful World's Tonic. Since I have been so much helped several of my friends have overcome their prejudices and are taking this great medicine. So far every one of them says it has helped them. I'm for World's Tonic all the time."

Suffering men and women can get World's Tonic at Eckerd's; Paisley's, or any other first class drug store. (A-21)

NOT long ago I was like some friends I have...low in spirits...run-down...out of sorts...tired easily and looked terrible. I knew I had no serious organic trouble so I reasoned sensibly...as my experience has since proven... that work, worry, colds and whatnot had just worn me down.

The confidence mother has always had in S.S.S. Tonic...which is still her stand-by when she feels run-down...convinced me I ought to try this Treatment...I started a course...the color began to come back to my skin...I felt better...I no longer tired easily and soon I felt that those red-blood-cells were back to so-called fighting strength...it is great to feel strong again and like my old self. © S.S.S. News Of Terrific Battle Comes From Southeastern Ethiopian Front

RESULT OF BATTLE REMAINS UNDECIDED

(International News Service)

ADDIS ABABA, April 9.—News that a terrific battle, with heavy losses on both sides, has been raging on the southeastern front around Birkos, near Gabredarre, reached the capital today.

The result remains undecided.

Preceded by the bombing of Sasa Baneh, 84 miles north, and Daggah Bur, still farther north, the battle, first major fight on the southern sector for several weeks, is believed to mark the opening of General Rodolfo Graziani's offensive.

When the summer rains hold up the campaign in the north, the southern forces will attempt to drive to Jijiga and Harar, cutting off the caravan trails over which supplies are brought into Ethiopia from British Somaliland. The Addis Ababa-Djibouti railway would be only a short march northward.

Shirtwaist nightgowns are one of the smartest fashions. Tucked bosoms, frilly little jabots, boyish little bows make them very flattering.

New Attack On Alleged Waste

Senate Asks List Of W.P.A. Salaries Over $2,000 Annually

CHARGE OVERHEAD COSTS EXCESSIVE

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 9.—A fresh attack upon alleged waste in expenditure of federal relief funds was launched today by Senator Steiwer (R) of Oregon, through introduction of senate resolutions calling for publication of payrolls in the works progress and resettlement administrations.

This came on the heels of charges by Senator Carey (R) of Wyoming, that the resettlement administration sent out Christmas checks last December to persons in Wyoming who had never applied for relief. Carey demanded an investigation by Rexford Guy Tugwell, RA head, but charged Tugwell merely "whitewashed" the "shameful waste" of his subordinates.

Asks Salary Lists

Steiwer demanded both the WPA and the RA send the senate a complete list of the salaries and names of all employes drawing more than $2,000 a year. He said the public was entitled to this information, since there have been so many charges that both agencies are being used to provide jobs for politicians.

"There have been so many charges that the overhead cost of these agencies is excessive," said Steiwer. "The facts ought to be made known. I believe the public has a right to know how its tax-paid money is being spent. One of the best ways to get the facts about alleged extravagance is to publish the payrolls."

Administration To Resist

Administration leaders may resist adoption of the Steiwer resolutions, just as they have blocked final action on the Davis resolution proposing a sweeping inquiry into the charges of waste, extravagance and politics in the WPA. This resolution, sponsored by Senator Davis (R) of Pennsylvania, and promptly reported by the senate committee on expenditures in executive departments, had been shelved in the senate committee on contingent expenses.

Davis warned administration leaders he would not permit this blocking of the proposed inquiry by inaction. He threatened to carry his fight for the inquiry to the floor of the senate and put "every Democratic senator on record on the issue of covering up waste, extravagance and corruption in the federal service."

"I am giving this committee plenty of time in which to act," said Davis. "If it appears there is an effort being made to kill the inquiry, I shall carry the question to the senate."

New Setback For Ethiopia

Only League Council Can Take Up Ethiopian Allegations

(International News Service)

GENEVA, April 9.—Coincident with a reaffirmation of her willingness to open immediate peace negotiations under League of Nations auspices, Ethiopia today received another discouraging blow at the hands of the league.

Legal experts appointed to study the question announced the league's conciliation committee of 13 had no jurisdiction over mutual Italian and Ethiopian charges of war atrocities.

Up to Council

Only the league council may take up Ethiopia's allegation, backed by Britain, that Italy has been using poison gas. The council is due to meet in May, but a special session could be summoned earlier.

At a private conference today Wolde Mariam, Abyssinian minister to Paris, told Joseph Avenol and Salvador De Madariaga, constituting a sub-committee of the 13 group, that Ethiopia remains willing to negotiate for peace.

He repeated his insistance, however, that the discussions be within the framework of the league covenant, and not bi-laterally with Italy.

Sunday hasn't changed much. It just seemed gloomier in the old days because we didn't have the funnies to start us off right.

Valley Citizens Seek Damages From Industrial Plants

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 9—The battle of 192 residents of the Monongahela Valley to secure approximately $4,500,000 damages from three large industrial concerns for alleged personal and property injuries caused by tons of smoke from the companies' stacks, was before the state supreme court today.

The suits were brought by residents of Allegheny, Westmoreland and Washington counties against the Carnegie Steel Company, the Clairton by-products Coke Company and the Carnegie Steel and Wire Company. They claimed that tons of sulphur dioxide fumes from the plants had rendered their property "as barren as squatters' land."

Arguing the residents' appeal from an order of the Allegheny county court of common pleas, requiring him to secure "writs of attorney" to prove he represented all 192 of his alleged clients, Attorney Asa L. Carter also requested the court to assume original jurisdiction over the case and pass on the validity of the suits.

Hope To Solve $18,000 Robbery

To Examine Fingerprints Of Trio Under Arrest At Warren, Pa.

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 9.—William McCready, county bertillon expert, today was to check the fingerprints of three men held in Warren, Pa., in connection with a murder in hope of solving an $18,000 robbery in nearby Homestead.

The fingerprints of Joseph Goldberg, Joseph Sennett and Joseph Sananskas were brought here from Warren by county detectives and will be compared with prints found in the home of Albert J. Kubaneck, where an 800-pound safe containing about $18,000 in cash and valuables was stolen.

Sennett is charged, detectives said, with the murder of Metro Seminuk, shot to death at his filling station near Youngsville, Pa., March 27. Sananskas and Goldberg are held as accomplices.

Eggnogs In Bar Rooms Are Banned

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 9—Pennsylvanians can have all the eggnog they want to celebrate Easter but not from the "flowing bowl" of yester-year, Edward C. Dougherty, district supervisor of the federal alcohol tax unit announced today.

Putting a crimp in any plans taproom proprietors might have had to dispense traditional Easter cheer, Dougherty ruled the pre-mixed eggnog "out." It is against the law, he explained, to sell pre-mixed drinks without a rectifier's permit. It's impossible to tell whether the liquor in an eggnog, for instance, has been taxed.

Uncle Sam made one concession the district chief revealed. Bartenders may mix an old-fashioned bowl of eggnog for their customers if the latter order it in advance—all for themselves and not for general sale.

WASHINGTON AT A GLANCE

Adjournment Of Congress Is Late

Sessions May Overlap With Presidential Convention In Month Of June

BALKY CONGRESS DELAYS MEASURES

Central Press
Washington Bureau
1900 S street

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—Congress almost certainly will not get away from Washington as soon as its leaders recently were predicting, and as its entire membership and the administration were hoping.

For awhile the middle of April was spoken of as the deadline; then May 1; then mid-May; now early in June.

Considering that the Republicans' Cleveland convention starts June 9, "early in June" is fairly late in the season for congress" adjournment. It is politically very awkward to have Capitol Hill's lawmakers still in session with a national convention or two in eruption simultaneously.

TIGHT SQUEAK

True, the Democrats are not particularly interested in enabling Republican legislators to get away to the G. O. P.'s Cleveland gathering by June 9. However, if they are unaccommodating, there is the risk that the Republicans, retaliating, will prevent the Democrats from getting away to their gathering in Philadelphia by June 23.

Besides, considerations of sportsmanship enter into the matter.

All the same, there unavoidably will be a tight squeak between adjournment here and the Republicans' opening date in Cleveland—a three or four-day margin at most.

SLOW PACIFICATION

Financial legislation has not moved as fast as was expected. That is what has been responsible for the delay.

Theoretically the administration's program should have gone through in jig time; heaven knows the Democratic majority is big enough. However, not all Democrats see eye to eye with the White House on taxation and relief policies.

There was a deal of bickering in the house of representatives' ways and means committee within the majority itself, with the Republican minority of course siding with the recalcitrant Democrats.

To be sure, there never was any doubt that the administrationists would have substantially their own way. Still, the pacification of the balky Democrats took time. The administration faction would not have hesitated to ride rough shod over the Republican committeemen, but they had to be diplomatic with the disgruntled Democratic group, and diplomacy is slow work.

MAY OVERLAP CONVENTIONS

Thus the ways and means committee's deliberations were annoyingly prolonged.

Now the same sort of difficulties seem certain to string out proceedings on the floors of both congressional chambers. The senate probably will be a deal more finicky than the lower house; it generally is.

The fact is, it is none too safe betting that the session here will not overlap Cleveland and maybe Philadelphia.

There was such an overlapping four years ago, it will be recalled.

THREE-RING CIRCUS?

For one thing, Big Business, which heartily opposes the New Deal's fiscal plans (organizations like the National Manufacturers' association, the United States Chamber of Commerce and the American Liberty league, have said so in a large libraryful of mimeographed literature) has reserved its heaviest argumentative artillery to unlimber on the representatives' and senatorial floors.

It has, indeed, fought the administration in committee.

But a committee room fight seldom is spectacular. A fight in general session can be made very much so—and set-ups such as the Manufacturers' association, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the Liberty league have plenty of first-class publicity men.

These press agents would like to have a congressional contest raging right on into convention time. It might influence at least one nomination and possibly a couple of platforms.

But no congressman favors a three-ring circus, requiring him to perform in Washington, Cleveland and Philadelphia at the same time.

Blistering Attack On Administration

Magazine Publisher Flays Policies Of Tugwell And "Brain Trust"

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 9.—Bernarr MacFadden, the magazine publisher, unleashed a blistering attack on the Roosevelt administration in a luncheon address before the New York Board of Trade Wednesday.

"The neaw deal has restricted our progress towards recovery to an unbelievable degree," he declared.

He flayed the policies of Rex Tugwell and others of the "brain trust" and called upon the citizens of the nation to "throw out the socialistic visionaries."

"I charge the new deal with direct responsibility for stopping the greatest surge toward unprecedented prosperity that any country ever experienced in a period of one hundred and fifty days," said MacFadden.

MacFadden told his audience of business men "the new deal program" and the activities of Tugwell did not begin with the inauguration of Mr. Roosevelt on March 4, 1933.

They began, he pointed out, on August 1, 1933, with the inauguration of the NRA and "the actual aims of the new deal were not realized even in part until after the first of September, 1933."

"There was absolutely no similarity between the attitude of the president towards business or towards the constitution from March 4 to the time of the introduction of NRA in comparison with his attitude toward business and American institutions after the introduction of this bureaucratic control," said MacFadden.

He contended that "the new deal system of regimentation and anti-business activities were entirely unnecessary and prolonged human suffering and other evils associated with unemployment for more than two years."

THE PARENT PROBLEM

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

THE PARENT PROBLEM
CHRONIC DEAFNESS

"Dear Dr. Myers: Having read your articles for some time, and being very well impressed with some of them and quite naturally not agreeing with others, I was tremendously interested in your recent article regarding deafness. This is an ailment which is causing so much distress, that I feel impelled to write you. You may use my letter in your column if you wish, but I want to commend you, in any event, for bringing this important message to the notice of your readers.

"Although not yet 40, I have been partially deaf for 20 years. In all that time I have asked, 'What did you say?' and 'I beg your pardon?' so often that if I had only a penny for every request for repetition, I would be quite wealthy...The agony I suffered as a child, as a young woman, and even now, was so intense that on several occasions I tried to commit suicide. Life didn't seem worth living when those closest to me hadn't the tolerance to recognize that I was the sufferer in not hearing, rather than they. . . .

"I married a normal man, soft spoken, whose greatest abomination on earth is to raise his voice, and for all the years we are married it has been the same struggle of trying to make ears that simply will not function up to standard, hear. I have two normal children....Nothing helps, and only within the last year a doctor was honest enough to tell me that no amount of treatment will help.

No Tolerance.

"There is no tolerance among people for those who live in the world of half silence, where sound is like the droning of bees.

"Do I emphasize too strongly? Indeed I do not. And to those who think so, I advise the same test of understanding that the heroine of 'The Rosary' imposed upon herself when she blindfolded herself and sat in a darkened room visiting with her dearest and most loved friends without removing the bandage to see them, to find out for herself just what the blindness that had overtaken her lover, might mean. To those who will not understand the unhappiness and loneliness caused by partial deafness, I advise a deliberate partial deafness through muffling of the ears with cotton for a period of time

"The blind are treated with every consideration. People recognize these unfortunates cannot see, they don't stupidly lose patience with those to whom sight is denied. Why, then, must those who suffer an affliction equally as painful be subjected to such ignorant intolerance?"

She's listening to CRISPNESS

LISTENING, yes, but not for long. While those crunchy Rice Krispies are still crackling in milk or cream, this little girl is going to get busy with her spoon and eat every one of those toasted rice bubbles "all up."

It's a great treat to eat a big bowl of Kellogg's Rice Krispies. And with them, you get the wholesome goodness of milk. Extra delicious with fruits or honey added. Nourishing and easy to digest. Ideal for the nursery supper or bedtime snack because they promote sound sleep.

At grocers everywhere in the Mother Goose story package. The WAXTITE bag inside the package keeps Rice Krispies oven-fresh. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Quality guaranteed.

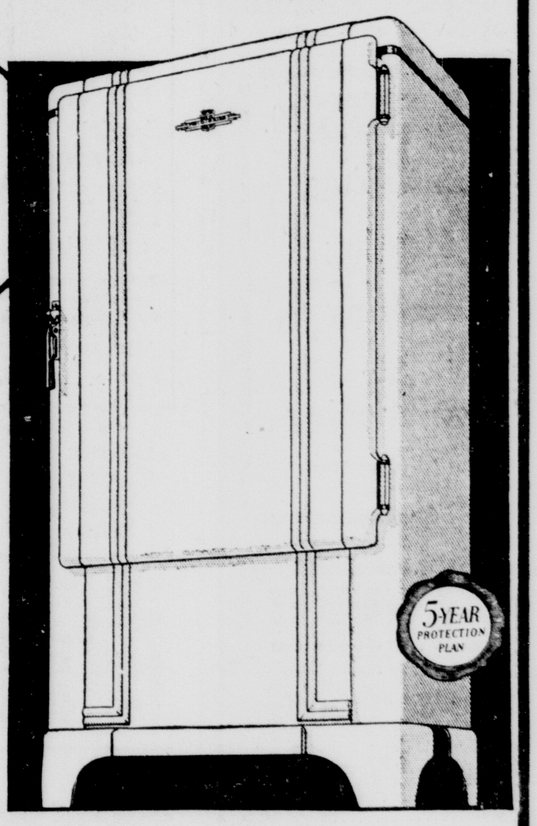

SO CRISP they actually crackle in milk or cream

One Farmer Says He Saw Plane 20 Feet Above Tops Of Trees

SPECIAL INQUIRY NOW IN PROGRESS

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 9.—Still probing for the cause of the crash of the "Sun Racer," TWA luxury air-liner that carried 11 of its 14 occupants to death when it hurtled into Chestnut Ridge near here, official investigators today turned to the mountain folk who brought aid to the three survivors in an effort to pierce the mystery surrounding the disaster.

The mountaineers will appear this afternoon at a special preliminary inquiry into the crash, summoned by Dennis Mulligan, Department of Commerce attorney.

Mountaineers To Testify

From them, investigators hope to hear something that will aid in explaining the fate of the air-liner, which was more than 30 miles off its regular course when it smashed up.

Scheduled to appear at the inquiry this afternoon are Dale Weller, Robert Rankin and George Harold, farmers who helped Stewardess Nellie Granger succor the survivors.

Ray Addis, from whose farm home Miss Granger flashed word of the tragedy to offices of the air line, will also be called to testify as will his wife, who was the only one present at the Addis home when the stewardess, injured and exhausted, staggered up with her announcement.

After the rescue workers lay their stories before the inquiry board, the hearing will move to Pittsburgh, probably tomorrow, for testimony of technical witnesses.

Saw Plane Over Trees

A preliminary inquest into the tragedy ordered by Fayette county coroner, S. A. Baltz, threw little additional light on the crash. Isaac Holl, 33-year-old Wharton Furnace farmer, testified he had seen the plane about 10 a. m. Tuesday, "about 20 feet over the top of the trees."

Holl estimated that when he saw the plane it was only about 150 feet off the ground.

Raymond Browning, WPA worker on a road project on the ridge, told the coroner he heard a plane pass "high above" about the same time and that it was flying through rain and snow. A few minutes later, he said, he heard "a roar like an exhaust exploding."

Technical investigators into the crash drew from the preliminary inquest chiefly a confirmation of their belief that Otto Ferguson, pilot of the ill-fated liner, had been circling over the area seeking to get back onto the radio beam that would have led him to Pittsburgh airport—his scheduled destination.

On Court House Hill

Will of the late Martha J. Drake has been admitted to probate at the register and recorder's office. The bulk of her estate is divided among her three children, Francis Drake, Edward Drake and Howard Drake.

One of the peculiarities shown by the permanent registration of voters in this city is that there are more male voters in the Democratic party, in proportion to the total registration, than there are in the Republican party. Out of 13,698 registered in the Republican party there is an excess of males over females of 1,098, while out of a total registration of 5,335 in the Democratic party the excess of males over females is 1,416.

If there is to be any fireworks in the local campaign the show will have to start pretty soon, as it is now less than three weeks to the primmary election on April 28. The campaign here is quiet because there are no local offices to be filled other than members of the various county committees, and they cannot be tabulated at county offices. However electors will vote for a congressman, state senator, assemblymen and candidates for delegates to the national convention. Although the offices are important the public just don't seem to get aroused.

With plenty of time on their hands the county commissioners of Beaver county have been doing a little figuring on how much Beaver county would have to pay if the Ohio River and Erie ship canal is built. The sum is estimated at five million dollars. It would be expended in raising and replacement of bridges and highways in the county. While no computations have been made as to the cost in Lawrence county, it would not be as high as that figure as it is not likely that more than two bridges would have to be changed.

According to the State Department of Revenue, a Pennsylvania resident, with an eye on both the present and the future, has written the department for literature on "marriage and divorce, and also about dog laws." The mixed inquiry was referred to the department's division of miscellaneous licenses which supervises the issuance of dog licenses, fishing licenses, hunting licenses and others. The division was able to send the applicant a copy of the dog laws, but had nothing to offer on the subject of marriage and divorce. Probably the reason that no literature has been prepared on marriage and divorce is that nobody would follow it.

While electors have until April 18 to change their party affiliations if they so desire, it looks as though about all the changing has been done, as very few have come to the registration bureau during the past week. According to reports from other counties in the western end of Pennsylvania, there has been less changing of party affiliations here than elsewhere. In a number of instances here the same parties have changed twice.

Several of the cases which were scheduled for common pleas court during the month of April have been continued, among them being that of Gardner against the Peoples National Bank of Ellwood City and Nellie I. Hazen added defendant, and Sickafuse against the Rieck-McJunkin Dairy Company, an action in trespass.

A writ of foreign attachment has been filed at the prothonotary's office by Vincent Audino against John Doe, alias Shannon, in which the sheriff is directed to attach any money belonging to defendant, that may be found in the hands of the Kalajainen Collision Service Company.

A modern public address system is being installed at the Denver municipal airport.

Chides British For Not Paying Of War Debts

(International News Service)

MONTREAL, Que., April 9.—Informed the British House of Commons is debating Montreal's $272,750,000 debt conversion plan, Alderman J. Allan Bray today declared Montreal has no lesson to take from Britain on the sanctity of contracts until England shall have paid its war debts to the United States.

A clause in the Montreal bill, to be submitted to the Quebec legislature for approval, calls for reduction of interest rates on city bonds from an average of five to three per cent.

"After stopping payment on her war debts," Bray said, "Britain can find hundreds of millions for armaments.

"This does not aid in strengthening any country that would undertake to give lessons to Montreal on the sanctity of contracts."

INSPECTOR IS COMING

Within the next few weeks an inspector of the United States treasury department will come here to investigate the trouble developing in the marble treads of the stairways at the South Jefferson street entrance of the Federal building. The treads have been temporarily repaired.

More Evidence Against Federal Judge Is Heard

Federal Judge From Tampa Florida Offers Damaging Testimony

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Federal Judge Halsted L. Ritter, of Florida, faced the task today of overcoming criticism from his colleague, Federal Judge Alexander Akerman, of his action in ordering a $90,000 fee paid A. L. Rankin, his former law partner, in a 1930 receivership.

The house voted impeachment charges against Ritter, alleging the fee was exorbitant. It also charged him with corruptly accepting $5,000 of the fee.

Damaging Testimony

Judge Akerman, whose court is at Tampa, told the senate the the $90,000 was "too large." Akerman authorized $15,000 of this fee early in 1930 when Ritter asked him to fix Rankin's compensation for serving as attorney for the receivership for the Whitehall Building company.

At that time, Akerman testified he believed he was fixing Rankin's total fee for the case.

Later in the year Ritter ordered another $75,000 paid to Rankin, bringing his total fee to $90,000.

Akermans testimony was considered as damaging to Judge Ritter, since both serve in Southern Florida. Frank P. Walsh, of New York, chief defense counsel, drew from Judge Akerman the damaging opinion.

SALESMAN'S CAR IS SET AFIRE BY CIGAR

Firemen were called to the Diamond at 3:30 Wednesday afternoon to extinguish a fire in a car bearing Ohio license AP221, which had been set afire by a cigar dropped on the floor matting. The owner of the car was not around, but he was evidently a salesman, as the rear of the car contained a number of sample cases.

The machine was filled with smoke from the burning rubber matting. A passerby noticed the condition and summoned firemen. It was necessary to break the window in the door to put the fire out. The damage was around $5.

SCOUTS TO SEEK SAFETY PLEDGES HERE SATURDAY

Hundred Boys To Patrol Downtown As Part Of Junior Chamber Drive

Approximately 100 Boy Scouts of New Castle troops on Saturday, April 11 will lend their assistance to the Junior Chamber of Commerce in its "safe driving" campaign to reduce automobile accidents in the city and to make the streets as physically safe as possible to both motorists and pedestrians.

Safety is particularly emphasized in scouting and realizing the necessity for the immediate action to curtail automobile accidents, Scout Commissioner Ralph F. Davis gladly extended the cooperation of the Boy Scouts in this vital civic project.

Troops have been instructed by Scout Commissioner Davis to report on Saturday to the New Castle Junior Chamber of Commerce at the home service department room of the Pennsylvania Power company at 8:30 a. m. and again at 1 p. m., where final instructions will be given, pledge cards, stickers and safety books will be distributed. Mr. Davis has arranged for 50 scouts to report at 8:30 a. m. and 50 again at 1 p. m.

The motoring public will be asked on Saturday to sign a pledge card signifying that they pledge to drive carefully at all times and show full consideration for the rights and safety of others, and that all traffic laws will be obeyed. Each signer then receives a sticker indicating "Safe Driver Pledge Signer" which is to be placed on the lower right side of the rear car window. No obligation is incurred by any signer except that he or she will be a safe driver.

The scouts will patrol the downtown streets and solicit signatures from parked motorists.

Land Bank Wins Insurance Claim

Verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $1,238.65 was returned at court Wednesday evening in the case of the Pennsylvania Joint Stock Land bank against the Neshannock Mutual Fire Insurance company. The case was tried before Judge W. Walter Braham. The plaintiff sued to recover the insurance on a barn that was burned in Wilmington township. One of the points in controversy was whether the barn stood on an original tract of land formerly owned by the late E. J. O'Brien of this city, or whether it was on a tract that had been sold.

Generally speaking, football is the only game in the college athletic curriculum which is financially profitable. Some of the other sports are heavy drains on the athletic associations' treasuries.

My New York By James Aswell

(Copyright, 1936, by Central Press Assn.)

NEW YORK, April 9.—Randomusing: Out late and into the dawning not long ago, I meditated that in at least one department the horse has not been replaced. . . . I mean the beasts that haul the milk delivery wagons. . . . The vehicles are rubber-tired, in the modern craze to make New York whisper-silent, but they still plod their accustomed ways—more economically than any gasoline buggy could. . . . The gas bill for stopping and starting would be enormous and no flivver has been trained yet to follow its master from door to door. . . .

Vignette: two stray cats frisking about in front of the old Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals rescue home in 23rd Street. . . . And the human flotsam a stone's throw away, lounging on the steps of the municipal free bath house. . . . Portentous thought: in Greater New York and its satellite cities there are more people than in all of Canada, than in all of Argentina. . . . Richard Steere, dean of the old-time profession of humidor keepers, now guarding the tobacco stores of an uppity Fifth Avenue shop, reveals that the generation of expensive cigar smokers has almost vanished. . . . J. P. Morgan, the elder, Judge Gary, John W. "Bet a Million" Gates, James R. Keene and his son Foxhall, used to drop in and order a thousand dollars worth of smokes in a morning and think nothing of it. . . . The most costly cigar of those times was a Partega, retailing at $6 each. . . .

Escudero, the classical Spanish dancer, looks his role less than any of the hoofing Dons. . . . At the Club Gaucho, where he nightly terps for a sleek coterie of Castilian magnificoes, he slouches in a chair between numbers, hair uncombed, dress careless, eyes abstracted. . . . Escudero, who is the Astaire of the bullfight acres, is grooming a 21-year-old nephew to continue his family's dancing tradition. . . . The mannequins of the Paris dress shops consider Barbara Hutton's feet the most beautiful of any American woman's. . . . I like the mellow hope expressed by George Ade, that the regimenters of the future will leave young men of talent and ability "elbow room to move around and achieve their proper reward. I got mine."

If I had a few days in New York and I wanted to see some plays, I'd pick them in this order, knowing what I do: "First Lady," "Boy Meets Girl," "End of Summer," "Call It a Day" and "Ethan Frome" . . . That underscores the entertainment angle, which is precisely what should be underscored. . . . Unfortunately all playwrights fail to give it the proper emphasis. . . . Of course, if it were a fete and a musical were to be chosen, I'd grab a pair for the "Follies." . . . Comes word of how the stage doormen pick up a little extra change: backstage 'phone numbers are never listed in the directory and a stage door guardian who has a notebook crammed with them can earn an honest penny dispensing the digits to interested performers, who have performers, who have friends in other productions whom they want to meet at Dave's, Leon and Eddie's or "21." . . .

Sunday night, once the slumpiest session for the drawn bistros, has been turned into one of the crowd-'em-in-with-a-shoehorn evenings for night club headwaiters. . . . Sherman Billingsley started the movement at his who-ho-de-ho salon, the Stork Club, by raffling off bottles of champagne and, on special occasions, automobiles. . . . Now Sabbath night rounders (who should be home resting up for Monday's toil) can scarcely enter the portals of any of the late brasseries without getting tickets on everything from pink stuffed elephants to hogsheads of canary wine. . . .

Kiwanians Hear B. & O. Man At Weekly Luncheon

C. N. Fullerton, Leader In Vocational Education Work, Is Guest

A man who for years has supervised much of the vocational education work of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad system, described his work and the development of that work in industry before yesterday's weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis club at The Castleton.

He was Charles N. Fullerton, Baltimore, a special representative of the road's traffic department, and the man the B. & O. some years ago choose, in conjunction with the Railway Educational Bureau of Omaha, Neb., to put into effect a system of vocational training for young men desiring to become mechanics.

Junior Kiwanis Program

Mr. Fullerton's talk featured a program sponsored jointly by the club's vocational guidance committee and the Junior Kiwanians of the club. "Vocational Education was his subject.

Two new Junior Kiwanians, Edwin C. Wilson, Jr., and David J. Rowland, Jr., were introduced as successors to the two retiring junior members, Robert Young and James Gravenstreeter. Chairman Clement D. Parker of the vocational guidance committee, presented the newcomers who will attend all club functions for the next three months.

Introduced by John L. Thoman, terminal trainmaster here for the B. & O., Mr. Fullerton declared in part:

"Vocational guidance and vocational education, while different subjects, are so closely related that it is difficult to deal with one subject alone, so that I shall deal in a somewhat general way with both subjects in my remarks. Vocational guidance has been defined as 'the intelligent direction of young people in the choice of their life work' and it therefore follows that vocational education is simply the teaching of the specialized training necessary in a given vocation. I like to think of education however in the broader terms, and just recently I came across a definition of 'education' as follows: 'To learn to think honestly, judge fairly and make safe conclusions; to solve individual problems and to contribute to the needs of the times.' This definition to me, sums up aptly the goal for which all education generally should strive.

Not New In America

"Vocational guidance and vocational education is not new in our American educational system because it originated as early as the beginning of the present century, and it was brought about largely by a realization that one-fourth of the pupils who entered the first grades, were about the only ones who reached high school, and that fully 50 per cent never reached the sixth grade. This situation has been corrected by a compulsory school age law in most states, but it was due largely to this condition originally existing, together with the demand of industry for better trained young men and women, that vocational education has grown to the point where today it is quite generally recognized and has been introduced into the public schools and further several states have very definite laws legalizing vocational training and in some instances making it compulsory.

"The federal government has also recognized the need for vocational training and through the Smith-Hughes act, provides for the lending of federal aid to those schools which may wish to take advantage of it."

Much of Mr. Fullerton's talk reviewed his own work on the B. & O. system.

Present to hear the address were two other local B. & O. men, D. L. Booth, general foreman at the New Castle Junction terminal and S. Huston Rhoads, freight agent here.

The Kiwanis club will hold a Ladies' Night program at the First U. P. church, Clenmore boulevard, on Thursday evening, April 16. It will take the place of the customary Wednesday luncheon next week.

Snow Removal In Pennsylvania Costs Millions

State Spends Almost As Much As Federal Allotment For Road Building

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—Pennsylvania spends almost as much on snow removal as the state gets from the Federal Government for construction of new highways, according to the American Association of State Highway officials.

The Association reports the Keystone State's snow removal fund this year is $4,000,000. The Federal apportionment to the state for road building is $5,348,062. Thus it is seen state funds for snow clearing approach the amount of Federal money for actual construction work.

The Association lists regular state highway maintenance expenditures in Pennsylvania as aggregating $22,693,000 in 1934. This was far in excess expenditures in any other state, Ohio coming second with $11,997,000, or a little more than half the Keystone State outlay.

Sportsmen Pay More For Hunting In Pennsylvania

Over $1,227,000 Paid For Hunting Licenses In Year In Keystone State

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—Sportsmen pay more for the privilege of hunting in Pennsylvania than in any other state of the nation, according to a study by the Bureau of Biological Survey.

In 1934, the latest year for which complete data are available, 563,663 resident and 6,024 non-resident hunting licenses were sold in the Keystone State. The money return from these was $1,227,692. This amount was greater than collections from hunting licenses in any other state, New York ranking second with $995,670 in such receipts.

Pennsylvania also outdistanced all other states in the number of hunting licenses sold, thus apparently winning the distinction of being regarded as the most popular hunting ground in the country.

DiMaggio Hopes To Make Grade In Big League

San Francisco Flash Has Never Seen Yankee Stadium, Not Worried By Crowds

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 9—Neither a $75,000 price tag nor an impending major league debut can shake the calm confidence of Signor Joe Dimaggio. The 21 year old San Franciscan who convered a .398 batting average into a fat Yankee contract.

A burned hoof still annoys him but it doesn't worry him. And such intangible things as tons of high-powered publicity and the roar of the crowd leave him cold.

For this level-headed young man knows his way around town.

Will Play Outfield

Signor Dimaggio (Dee-mah-gee-oh to you, if you've forgotten your Italian) says he will be in the Yankee outfield for the opener in Washington next Tuesday. He still has a slipper on one foot but he walks without a limp and assures you he is ready to go.

And how will he go? Well, let the signor hoist his 186 pounds to his full six feet and tell you:

"I expect to do all right but I wish everybody would forget the idea that I'm trying to be another Babe Ruth. If I develop into a very good Joe Dimaggio I'll be satisfied.

"Lefty O'Doul taught me a lot on the coast and I've learned some things since I came east and one of them is that a major league pitcher just has one throwing arm like anybody else.

Has Confidence

"The difference between the majors and minors is that you're apt to see good pitching up here all the time. On the other hand, there are more good hitters up here to soften up that good pitching so I guess it all evens up in the long run."

Joe laughed at the suggestion he might suffer a little stage fright when facing a huge New York crowd for the first time. "I never hear them," said he, and after talking to the young man and observing his quiet sureness in himself you can well believe it.

Never Seen Stadium

He hasn't even made a visit to the Yankee stadium. "I'll see it soon enough," is his explanation, "and looking at it now isn't going to make me catch fly balls any better or get me any base hits.

And what does he think of the big town? he grinned. "Well, it's all right, of course, but San Francisco is pretty good too."

But the way he says it leaves you the impression that he thinks San Francisco is much better. And he may be right at that.

Hopes To Break Auto Speed Marks

(International News Service)

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, April 9.—More auto speed records will be sought on the Bonneville salt beds, near here, over which Sir Malcolm Campbell raced at 300 miles per hour last summer it was learned today.

Captain George Eyston, British dare-devil driver, announced he will bring a new car to Utah this month and if condition of the salt beds permits, he will attempt to shatter many short distance records.

Eyston, in addition to attempting to break his own record for a 24-hour endurance spin, will seek to recapture four records broken recently by Hanz Stuck, German racer.

However, pleasant the trip might be we should be better pleased if the Schmeling-Louis fight had not been selected for it. This big business deal can well be fought without us."

Miners Rebuild Pine Township Mine Fire Ruins

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, April 9—Miners whose work was interrupted by the recent fire at the mine of the Pine Township Coal Co., near here, when boiler house, tipple, bins and stored coal were consumed with an $8,000 loss, are being given employment by the mine operator, Ray Bowie, in making repairs.

A new boiler house is nearing completion, and new bins and a tipple will be in readiness for operation sometime in May. The work is not being rushed, due to the lack of demand for fuel at this season, and the 30 men are going part-time work on the repairs. The firm lost a large summer contract because of the fire but Mr. Bowie expects to secure other orders to keep the mine in operation during June and July.

Stock Market Is Irregular

Pre-Holiday Irregularity Appears In Stock Market Today

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 9.—Pre-holiday irregularity made its appearance in the stock market today, and trading, which had started with a rush, slowed down to a snail's pace.

U. S. Steel displayed a relatively steady tone to hold around its previous finish.

In farm equipments, J. I. Case jumped three points into new high ground at 165. Others in this section were fractionally improved.

Motor shares were hit by profit-taking. Chrysler slipped a point before meeting support, while General Motors and Auburn lost fair-sized fractions.

In the carrier department, Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania and Atchison were slightly higher, while N. Y. Central, Northern Pacific and Southern Pacific sustained modest fractional declines.

Utilities also were mixed; Consolidated Edison and North American were in demand, but Public Service of N. J., sold off.

Oils and building shares were lower, while alcohols turned irregularly higher.

Bonds were mixed. Grains were lower. Cotton was steady.

Through Storm Area

Warm Springs, Ga., April 9.—President Roosevelt arrived here from Florida today for a one-day stay as his "Little White House," but only after his train had run through a section of Georgia which bore brutal marks of last Monday's tornado

Outside of Macon, Ga., the presidential special crawled over tracks covered with more than a foot of water. Off to either side, the flooded area left in the wake of the storm was more pronounced, with trees and telegraph poles partially submerged.

As the train neared Warm Springs, it passed into a region untouched by the tornado. Heavy rains which followed the storm, however, had flooded lowlands and creeks were swollen.

Dismal weather prevailed but did not deter infantile paralysis patients from giving their chief sponsor a rousing welcome. Many of those who were able had gone down to the village station to greet him when he stepped off the train. Others were lined up outside of Georgia hall in wheel chairs to cheer as the president passed.

River Towns Could Be Spared Further Damages By Floods

Proper Scientific Precaution Would Prevent Considerable Future Damage

Would Build Dykes, Dry Dams And Levees In Johnstown And Pittsburgh Areas

By WATSON FENIMORE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—Pennsylvania's river communities—most of them still recovering from the horror of the St. Patrick's Day floods could be protected forever from future property damage and loss of life if proper scientific precautions are taken, E. E. Brownell, noted Philadelphia public utility engineer, told International News Service today.

Brownell, in an exclusive interview, outlined a system of dykes, dry dams and levees which, he said, would have saved scores of lives and millions of dollars loss in Johnstown, Pittsburgh, Wilkes-Barre, Harrisburg and other inundated cities had they been constructed before the paralyzing torrents let loose last month.

"But it is up to the state to take the initiative," he asserted, adding that the federal government, however, should also assist financially.

Make Johnstown Safe

Johnstown can be made safe forever," Brownell maintained in paying particular attention to this scene of two river disasters since 1889. "There is no question about that. Making a guess, the cost would be approximately $10,000,000. Protection would involve the construction of dry dams on the Quemahoning, South Fork, Little Conemaugh and Stony creeks."

The flood expert characterized dry dams as the only answer to Johnstown's problem, explaining that by an arrangement of open gates such masonry can readily impound excess water and keep streams at nearly normal heights even after heavy rains. Wet dams, he explained, have no "safety outlets." Therefore they are of no advantage in flood control and are in danger of bursting when overtaxed.

"I have made a thorough study of the Johnstown situation. It might be necessary to put one or two dry dams on some of the rivers," Brownell continued, "but they could be constructed easily because of the narrow valleys." One dam, he said, should be placed above the great Quemahoning west dam of the Bethlehem Steel Company to safeguard that embankment.

Fear Dam Break

"If the Quemahoning should ever break," he went on, "there wouldn't be enough left of Johnstown to pick up again. The reason it didn't go out last March is that the rain was general over the whole state. But there are times when cloudbursts are confined to a small area and if there is ever a 10-inch fall in the Quemahoning valley, the dam will be in danger."

Pittsburgh would benefit to some extent if Johnstown's streams were controlled, Brownell said, "but Pittsburgh must also go to the sources of the Monongahela and Allegheny to dam and then construct levees in the city."

Need Levees

Levees, he explained, are the only practical recourse along larger streams which should, however, be dry-damned at the headwaters. Brownell, who has been a consulting engineer for 75 cities in this country at different times, advocates a similar levee-dam arrangement for the Susquehanna which overran Wilkes-Barre, Harrisburg and other points.

"The upper portions of that stream should be damned," he insisted, "thus partially protecting points as far south as Harrisburg. Then levees should be built wherever necessary."

As the first step toward such a program Brownell declared the legislature should create flood control districts, giving the state the right to condemn land for safety operations.

Rename Officers For Motor Club

Bolsinger Continues As Head Of New Castle Motor Club

Officers who have served the New Castle Motor Club for the past year were re-elected Wednesday night when the board of governors met in the club offices in the Castleton Hotel.

The officers re-elected are President Ralph W. Bolsinger, First Vice President, O. H. P. Green; Second Vice President, Thomas R. Jones; F. S. Hoyt, treasurer and B. N. Hanlon, secretary.

The possibilities of increasing the membership were discussed and steps will be taken later to bring the list up to where it should be. The co-operation of the club with the Junior Chamber of Commerce in the recent safety campaign was reported to the governors.

One objective of the club is about reached, the construction of the Edenburg viaduct. For many years the New Castle Motor Club has advocated such a viaduct and was active in getting the Public Service Commission to hold hearings on it. Construction of the viaduct will start soon.

During the recent flood the club was used freely by motorists who wanted road directions. This was reported to the governors.
